

Foes of Court Plan to Oppose Curb on Debate In Upper House

Hope to 'Educate' Nation Against Enlarging Tribunal
NO FILIBUSTER SEEN
Opponents are Strong Enough to Block Action if They Choose

Washington—(P)—Members of both sides in the controversy over enlarging the supreme court agreed today there were sufficient senate opponents to block action indefinitely if they chose filibustering tactics.

Administration leaders, however, expressed doubts that any group of senators, no matter how sizable, would be willing to prevent a vote.

Roosevelt backers continued to predict victory. Opponents were not talking filibuster, they were after enough votes to beat court reorganization, and declared they had almost enough.

Privately, however, foes of the president's program said they would talk long and hard to "educate" the nation on the issue. They were ready to combat any move to curb debate by cloture, that infrequently used senate procedure for forcing a vote.

Despite administration unwillingness to face the possibility of filibuster, it was this possibility which has given rise this week to talk of compromise.

President Firm
President Roosevelt, according to those who have talked with him in no mood to compromise. His advisers have said nothing yet proposed would meet the problem.

Some, however, said they believed if some scheme could be found to accomplish his aims without a constitutional amendment that would win over some of the opponents, he might accept it.

Secretary Ickes expressed the administration's opposition to an amendment in addressing the Texas legislature last night.

"The child labor amendment has been knocking at the doors of legislatures 13 years and hasn't been adopted yet," he said.

"Didn't the people vote for the New Deal during the next 4 years? Are they willing to wait 20?"

Debate on Floor
The court issue reached the senate floor in general debate yesterday for the first time, although the bill is not yet before it. Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Capper of Kansas, Democratic chiefs, supported the president's recommendations as mild and logical against interrogations of Senators Bailey (D-N.C.) and Bone (D-Wash.).

The case of the opponents was voiced last night by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) in a radio address charging the administration was trying to "pack" the court.

"If there must be dictatorship in America," he said, "I nominate the American people."

"A liberal cause was never won by stacking a deck of cards, nor by stuffing a ballot box, nor by packing a court."

Representatives Cox (D-Ga.) and Guyer (R-Kans.) also criticized the program in addresses last night, while Representative Hill (D-Wash.) lauded it as constitutional, Democratic and American.

Powder and Ore Trains Collide; 6 Men Killed
San Francisco—(P)—Six men were killed when an ore train ramed a powder train at the Walker mine in Plumas county, the department of industrial relations here was informed today.

George E. Kimball, chief electrical engineer of the department, said mine officials had telegraphed him, listing the dead as Louis Ghira, Carl Downing, Lloyd Gilder, Pat Burns, Herbert Blauel and W. Schacker.

2 Youth Congress Leaders Arrested At U. S. Capital

Washington—(P)—Police arrested two leaders of the American Youth congress near the White House today and charged them with violating their permit to parade.

The men, William Hinkley, 25, and Abbott Simon, 21, of New York, were sitting down with a group of followers in the street just south of the executive mansion when the arrests were made.

They had a permit to parade through downtown streets past the mansion.

Simon, the organization's national legislative counsel, said he and Hinkley, who is national chairman, were awaiting arrival of a covered wagon containing petitions to be presented to the president.

Simon and Hinkley were at the head of the parade; the wagon was at the end.

As the crowd of youths, estimated at 500, sat in the middle of executive avenue—the thoroughfare that swings back of the White House—they chanted "pass the American youth act."

The measure, pending in congress, would provide $500,000,000 for work and schooling for young people.

Five delegates left the petitions to the president at the White House after the arrests of their leaders.

Senate Group to Extend Scope of Its Investigation

Black Legion and Vigilante Organizations Facing Probes

Washington—(P)—The LaFollette civil liberties committee, strengthened by a new $40,000 appropriation, decided today to push its investigation into new fields—among them the Black Legion and kindred vigilante groups.

Its three weeks' study of General Motors' far-reaching labor espionage system virtually was completed by the testimony of a bristly-haired, thickest auto worker, Arthur Dubuc, former Pinkerton undercover operative.

Dubuc told the committee yesterday that Lawrence Pugmire, assistant superintendent in the detective agency's Detroit office, had paid him $62.50 on Feb. 4, shortly after Dubuc was summoned as a senate witness.

"He wanted me to perjure myself here," the self-styled "fighting Frenchman" declared. "He told me that if I was called as a witness I shouldn't say anything."

Early in 1936, he related, Pugmire had "hooked" him into writing reports on "radicalism" and union activities, which the detective agency passed on to General Motors officials.

Dubuc said he became "very discouraged" about the United Automobile Workers' union, of which he was a veteran member, after Pinkerton officials told him the organization was "hopeless."

"They gave me the impression all our officers were selling out," he added. "I didn't know whom I could trust."

Nevertheless, he insisted, he refused to "sell out my fellow workers, not even for a million bucks," and showed his secret reports to other union members.

Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.) adjourned hearings until Monday when the committee will investigate labor conditions in General Motors plants at Baltimore.

15 Taxi Drivers Fined $1,000 Each

Baltimore Judge Suspends One-Year Jail Terms In Strike Violence

Baltimore—(P)—Judge Eugene O'Dunn fined 15 striking taxicab drivers $1,000 each today and suspended jail terms of one year on their convictions of assaults, riots and other disturbances in the taxi strike here.

In suspending the jail sentences on the condition of good behavior, Judge O'Dunn advised the defendants that an immediate end to the strike might bring them clemency.

The judge placed the possibility of the clemency offer on the conditions that all taxicabs by noon today "can safely ply the public streets, unmolested and without the necessity of police protection."

If this is done," he said, he would "be disposed to make appropriate recommendations" to the governor to remit and withdraw the fines on "such conditions as might insure a lasting peace and freedom from public disorder."

Ban Goes Into Effect Tonight In Spanish War

27 Nations Agree to Join In Blockade by Land and Sea

PENALTIES PROVIDED
Expect Portugal to Permit Foreign Observers On Her Soil

London—(P)—The nations of Europe clamped down an embargo on fighting men for Spain today to halt the menace of "the little world war" of civil conflict converting the continent into its battlefield.

Even while they timed their stringent measures—long term jail sentences in some cases—to take effect at midnight tonight, 27 nations were pledged to impose a workable war blockade by land and sea around the peninsula by March 6.

Portugal alone of the members of the international non-intervention committee remained to be converted entirely, but informed observers felt her objections to foreign observers on her soil would be overcome over the weekend.

Agree on Compromise
This last stumbling block was expected to be met by a compromise allowing British inspectors to see that Portugal keeps her pledge not to send arms or guns to her warring neighbors.

The Italian ban on volunteers, announcing "penal measures" as punishment was published officially last night.

Czechoslovakia took radical measures to prevent her nationals from fighting in Spain. A bill to enforce Belgian non-intervention was put up to the cabinet council yesterday.

The Hungarian cabinet prohibited by decree recruiting by either side of the struggle under threat of severe punishment and the Irish Free State passed to second reading a bill to the same effect.

Germany already has outlawed volunteers along with France and Britain, and recalcitrant Portugal has pledged herself to the principle of non-intervention.

Patrol Zones
The naval cordon will be drawn about the peninsula by the combined navies of Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Portugal.

7 Firemen Hurt, 3 Still Missing

Falling Roof Traps Victims as Nashville Building Burns

Nashville, Tenn.—(P)—Seven firemen were injured and three were trapped under a falling roof when a fire broke out in a building which destroyed one building and damaged another on the edge of Nashville's business district today.

Spectators expressed fear that the missing men were dead, crushed by the debris. Physicians said none of the injured firemen rescued appeared to be in a serious condition.

The fire originated in the four-story building housing the W. E. Stephens Manufacturing company. All the walls were standing an hour after the alarm was sounded. The flames spread to the adjoining Neely-Harwell company building.

The firemen were injured when the upper floors of the Stephens building collapsed, sending burning timbers crashing to the basement. Falling debris blocked all entrances and made the search for the missing men difficult.

Nearly all of the city's fire-fighting equipment was pressed into service.

Fire Chief F. B. Moore said the trapped men were members of Engine Company No. 1, who were working on the first floor when upper floors gave way. He said he believed they fell into the basement and were killed.

Property damage was estimated unofficially at $300,000.

Aviator Injured When Icefall Falls on Him

Rice Lake, Wis.—(P)—Jack Spaulding, an aviator, was recovering in a hospital today from injuries received when a huge icicle weighing more than 100 pounds fell and struck him as he was leaving a building. Physicians said two vertebrae were broken and Spaulding will be laid up several weeks.

Week's Weather

Chicago—(P)—Weather outlook for the period of Feb. 22 to March 1, 1937:

For the region of the Great Lakes—Unsettled with some precipitation first of week and again near end; temperatures generally above normal but colder first of week and again near end with warmer middle of week.

For the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys—Some precipitation indicated about middle of week; rising temperature by Tuesday or Wednesday; colder latter part of week.

For the northern and central great plains—Not much precipitation indicated; rising temperature first of week; colder middle of week; near normal thereafter.

Mob of 200 Wrecks Shanghai Theater, Routs Audience

Shanghai—(P)—About 200 men, identified by authorities as Italian civilians and sailors from an Italian man-of-war at anchor here, stormed a motion picture theater today and routed the audience with gunfire, ammonia bombs and clubs.

They slugged two Russian film projection operators showing a Russian-made picture dealing with the Italian conquest of Ethiopia and seized the film. One suffered a broken arm, the other a gash on the head.

Before Chinese police, British settlement authorities, Japanese Marines and Italian officials arrived at the Isis theater, on the border of the international settlement, the mob had wrecked the interior of the place and fled.

Federation Head Pleads for Unity In Labor's Ranks

Green Wants Meeting With C. I. O. in Effort to End Differences

Washington—(P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, replied to an attack by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers with a new bid today for unity in organized labor's ranks.

The stocky, bespectacled former mine laborer announced the executive council of the federation had reaffirmed its desire for a meeting with the committee on industrial organization, headed by Lewis, to seek settlement of their differences.

At the same time, the council denounced a mine workers' policy committee for "spite and bitterness" in demanding that Green be expelled from the union for criticizing the General Motors strike.

"The executive council regrets sincerely the division and confusion that has taken place in the affairs of organized labor," it said. "It cannot view this internal division and strike as other than tragic in the life and work of all wage earners in our country."

The United Mine Workers and nine other unions were suspended from the A. F. of L. for "insurrection" last fall in organizing the committee for industrial organization.

Seeks 30 Million for Drought-Stricken Areas

Washington—(P)—Congress received yesterday a request from Representative Merlino Hull, Black River Falls, Wis., for a $30,000,000 appropriation to aid drought-stricken farmers.

Hull stipulated in the bill the amount should be allocated to the works progress administration, which would be authorized to loan it to farmers in drought areas with which to purchase feed for livestock.

Such loans would be repaid, Hull provided by labor on WPA projects. The funds, under the bill, also could be used to resume limestone crushing plants in Wisconsin, halted because informal rulings have held such projects technically could not be undertaken by WPA. In the past, farmers have worked on limestone projects, the limestone being used for fertilizer.

Hull estimated Wisconsin drought farmers would need about $15,000,000 for feed for livestock.

Preacher, Merchant Held in Floggings

Charlotte, N. C.—(P)—Affidavits of two alleged flogging victims, Sheriff J. A. Russ disclosed today, led him to arrest a bearded country preacher and a crossroads merchant in connection with the activities of a band of hooded, "praying" night riders.

The sheriff said the statements implicated both the Rev. Vance Simmons, a primitive Baptist minister, and B. G. Simmons, a former deacon, as members of the self-styled band of "Christians" who flog and then pray over their victims.

The preacher, who serves several churches across the state line in Horry county, South Carolina, charged he was accused because he had refused to denounce the flogging of what he termed "a not despicable group."

Strikers Keep Possession of Illinois Plant

Ejection Moves Delayed to Allow Conciliators Time to Act

GOVERNOR'S PLEA
Conferences at Waukegan Are Seeking Basis of Settlement

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—According to Governor Horner's request that conciliators be given a chance, Sheriff L. A. Doolittle temporarily abandoned further efforts today to eject sit-down strikers forcibly from the Pansteel Metallurgical corporation's $1,500,000 plant.

Ensnared behind nailed doors of two factory buildings in North Chicago, the strikers awaited word from conferences called in Waukegan to evolve a basis of settlement.

Heat and water were shut off in the buildings, where windows were shattered yesterday in a two-hour battle between the defenders and special deputy sheriffs trying to serve a court order to evict them.

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—Special deputies maintained vigil about the Pansteel Metallurgical corporation plant today while Sheriff L. A. Doolittle considered a call for state troops as his next move to evict 82 sit-down strikers entrenched in the factory.

Max Sverin, general counsel for the corporation, said it would "demand that the sheriff appeal to the governor for troops" if he was unable to dislodge the strikers with his own force which was beaten back Friday by the workers.

Yesterday the sheriff termed the situation at the beleaguered plant "out of control" but he was requested by state and federal conciliators to postpone an appeal to the governor for guardsmen temporarily.

The conciliators said they hoped to obtain an agreement between the contending parties at conferences today.

No New Rioting
There was no recurrence of rioting during the early daylight hours and most of the sheriff's force of 200 special officers was withdrawn from the strike scene. Still besieged the plant were a detachment of about 40 officers.

A brief battle between the full force of special deputies and strike sympathizers in a crowd of 500 persons near the factory grounds last night increased tension in the North Chicago community.

Earlier the 82 "sit-downers" behind nailed doors in two buildings repulsed a force of 125 men under

Subway Builder Faces Questioning in Murder

Traneek, N. J.—(P)—Prosecutor John J. Dreslin announced this afternoon that he was issuing a warrant for the arrest of Samuel Rosoff, wealthy New York subway builder, as a material witness in the slaying of R. Norman Redwood, New York business manager of a subway workers' union.

Breslin's announcements came a short time after Rosoff, in New York, said he would not come here for questioning about the slaying, but would submit to examination by authorities at his New York apartment.

The prosecutor said County Detective Chief Henry B. Lockwood would sign the warrant for Rosoff. Lockwood had been directing the detectives in investigating the killing of Redwood by an auto load of gunmen in the driveway of his secluded Laurelton parkway home here last night. Labor troubles, have been blamed by authorities for the killing.

Ulcer in Pontiff's Leg Re-Opened. Doctors Say

Vatican City—(P)—Pope Pius, by attempting to teach himself to walk again, has re-opened an ulcer in his left leg, his physicians reported today.

The open sore had been partly healed until the holy father started his daily effort to take several steps, attendants said. The wound appeared in December after a varicose vein in the pope's leg burst.

The 79-year-old pontiff's doctor ordered wider and tighter bandages bound around his leg to prevent possible development of infection in the wound.

Semi-official Vatican sources, meanwhile, announced the pope may appear in the Sistine chapel during Holy week services, constituting his first appearance in public since he became ill Dec. 5.

Woman Killed, 3 Injured in Crash

Springfield, Mo.—(P)—Mrs. Anna Ferris, 60, of Kenosha, Wis., was killed and three others were injured seriously yesterday when their car careened off a highway near Marshfield, Mo.

Mrs. Ferris, widow of James C. Ferris, former general superintendent of the Simmons company in Kenosha, died in a Marshfield doctor's office while first aid was being administered.

Mrs. Ricardus J. Finnegan, 48, wife of the editor of the Chicago Times, the driver, Mrs. G. J. Schickluna, and Mrs. C. P. Chaffin, all of Chicago, are in a hospital here.

Highway patrolmen said tire tracks showed the car wheels slipped off the slab and caught when Mrs. Finnegan tried to regain the pavement. The machine then swerved completely around, they said, going off into a 6-foot ditch on the opposite side of the road, overturning twice. The automobile was demolished.

The women were enroute from Chicago to Hot Springs, Ark. The body of Mrs. Ferris was to be returned to Kenosha today.

Faces Trial on Charge Of Dyer Act Violation

Eau Claire—(P)—Gilbert Blanchette, 20, Eau Claire, was bound over to federal court on a charge of violating the Dyer act when arraigned before Commissioner A. J. Sutherland here today. Unable to furnish bond he was taken to the Madison jail.

Blanchette pleaded guilty to the theft of an automobile owned by Robert Jones at Olesby, Ill., and driving it to Eau Claire.

His companion, Edward Moriarty, 19, is awaiting trial in circuit court here on forgery charges.

Merchants Make Plans for Dollar Day Next Thursday

More than 50 Appleton merchants today were completing arrangements for the annual winter Dollar day which will be held next Thursday.

Features of unusual value, always a feature of Dollar day, will be offered to the buying public which has long been awaiting this winter's big selling event.

Prices of numerous articles will be slashed to meet the dollar price. Some merchants have made trips to markets in Milwaukee and Chicago and have stocked up with

Report Roosevelt for Plan Setting Minimum Pay, Maximum Hours

127,000 Back at General Motors; 13,000 Waiting

Shortages of Materials Delay Full Resumption Of Operations

Detroit—(P)—One hundred and twenty-seven thousand of the 140,000 General Motors employees who were idle at the peak of the recent strike were back at work today, a week after the corporation began recalling workers.

Executives reported that 220,000 of the 235,000 employees were on duty, but that shortages of materials have delayed complete resumption of operations in a few plants. The remaining 13,000 are expected to return to work next week.

Negotiators representing General Motors and the United Automobile Workers of America, saying they were progressing, recessed over the weekend. It was indicated they would resume discussions of seniority rights when they reassemble Monday.

Blames World Bankers
Henry Ford founder of one of General Motors' chief competitors, charged in an interview at his Wayne, Ga. plantation that "international bankers are behind the labor unions" and advised workers to "stay out of labor organizations."

"International financiers are behind the labor unions because they want to control industry and kill competition," the veteran automobile manufacturer said. "They are the cause of all these strikes."

"A man loses his independence when he joins a labor group of any kind, and he suffers as a result."

"Competition" will "guarantee workers a fair wage, but labor unions destroy their competition."

"It is organizations of this type that lead up to war."

"I am thoroughly convinced that the cure for strikes and other labor difficulties is a high minimum wage."

"It is the less-skilled man, working on the smaller scale, who causes trouble when his income is insufficient for his family needs. Merit skill and ability take care of the salaries of the higher-paid men."

"A minimum wage has been our policy since 1914. Industries must arrange to take care of the expense of this."

At Washington William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said regarding Ford's advice to workers:

"His conclusions, in my judgment are unfounded and not well based. The industrial worker stands helpless in dealing in wages and hours with a powerful employer like Mr. Ford."

Employees in the Oshawa, Ont. plant of General Motors were to return to work today, their one-day strike having been settled.

GRENADATE TARGET

Rome—(P)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, viceroy of Ethiopia, was slightly wounded by a hand grenade, an official communique announced today, when rebellious natives at Addis Ababa attempted to assassinate him as he presented them with gifts.

Many others, including the Copie Bishop Abuna Cirillo, were gravely wounded, the announcement said, when the natives hurled the grenades during a huge celebration of the birth of Prince Vittorio Emanuele, future emperor of Ethiopia.

Under the proposal, congress would make it a violation of fair practice laws for industries engaging in interstate commerce to pay excessively low wages or work employees unduly long hours.

Would Create Board
A new board would be created to formulate wage and hour standards for each industry. This board probably would be attached to the present federal trade commission.

It would fix the standards after industry-wide hearings, much as the old NRA codes were drafted. Its regulations, however, would be limited to wages and hours.

The labor standards officials said, would be aimed entirely at elimination of sweatshop conditions. Among minimum standards would be abolition of child labor.

Collective bargaining would be relied on to provide for wage and hour standards above those prescribed by the board.

On a complaint that the wage and hour regulations had been violated, either the board or the trade commission could issue a "cease and desist" order. After a hearing, fines or other penalties might be imposed.

Penalties Not Determined
The question of penalties has not been definitely settled, but White House advisers were said to oppose jailing of violators.

Present activities of the trade commission in the trade agreement field might be transferred to the commerce department. The commission now merely gives assent or disapproval to fair trade agreements formulated voluntarily.

The commerce department of another agency would participate in drafting the agreements and in administering them.

The government would take an active part in defending the agreements against court or other attacks. This, officials said, probably would help to promote a cooperative working arrangement between business and government.

Fair Practices
The agreements would be designed to wipe out false advertising, giving of unearned discounts and similar trade practices. They would be expected, however, to state definitely just what practices were permitted, and officials said this would do much to eliminate confusion regarding fair practice laws.

The agreements would be voluntary, and it was said, would not strike directly at the "chiselers." Authoritative persons said, however, those refusing to sign might lose benefits in the exchange of information among participating industries.

No attempt will be made to fix prices but officials said it might be possible to bring about voluntary understandings under which business men would agree not to sell below cost.

Anti-trust laws would be revised to authorize the agreements.

The two-way program, although narrower than the NRA, is in line with Mr. Roosevelt's assertions that objectives sought by the earlier recovery agency were good.

Would Provide Broad System of Voluntary Agreements HITS SWEATSHOPS

President Hasn't Studied Details of Legislation

Washington—(P)—Unimpeachable authorities disclosed today President Roosevelt is considering a flexible program to outlaw excessively low wages and long hours through revision of the fair trade practice and anti-trust laws.

Besides fixing mandatory wage and hour standards, the projected legislation would provide for a broad system of voluntary agreements under which business men could ban unfair and wasteful trade practices.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was emphasized, has not had time for a detailed study, but was reported to regard it favorably.

Officials said administration legal experts believe the program could be fitted into the present framework of the constitution and past supreme court rulings. If the president finally approves, they said, the court reorganization issue therefore need not delay its presentation.

Under the proposal, congress would make it a violation of fair practice laws for industries engaging in interstate commerce to pay excessively low wages or work employees unduly long hours.

Becker Resigns Post as Special Federal Counsel

Investigation Substantially Completed, He Tells President

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt accepted today the resignation of Samuel Becker of Wisconsin, special counsel for the federal communications commission. He has had charge of the commissions investigations of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

In a letter to the president, Becker said the investigation was substantially completed and he was anxious to resume private practice in Wisconsin.

"The investigation," he said, "has produced results more far-reaching than were anticipated."

"Its revelations have already furnished the basis for reductions in long distance rates, exceeding $22,000,000 for this year. It has made available for the first time information which is indispensable to state commissions for the adequate performance of their duties."

Helps Commission
These commissions have not had the broad investigational powers of the federal government, which made possible this information, and yet they must in the long run bear the brunt of telephone regulation.

"Moreover, the investigation will have furnished the essential facts without which a wise communications policy for the federal government cannot be formulated."

Accepting the resignation, the president said "it is a hard job at which you and your associates have been so devotedly working—digging quietly and patiently into intricate transactions of great businesses to piece together the facts which affect the public's interest."

"But it is a job which must be done, with increasing thoroughness if government is to be truly intelligent—if it is to keep abreast of every fact which intelligent judgment depends."

Confesses Accidental Killing, Conceals Body

Coatesville, Pa.—(P)—State police announced today the arrest of Alexander Meyer, 20, a farmer, and said he related he had accidentally run down and killed Helen Meyer nine days ago and hid her body in a well on his place.

County Detective Francis Grubb said Meyer stated he became panicky after striking the girl and decided to conceal the body. Later, Grubb said Meyer dynamited the top of the well to further hide the body.

Meyer has a farm at Cornet, near Downingtown, about six miles east of Coatesville.

He was arrested at Wayne, a suburb of Philadelphia, as he delivered a truckload of milk.

Meyer served a term in the Huntingdon reformatory for wounding two Philadelphia girls who walked on the farm.

His father, police said, is a wealthy coal dealer.

Farm Youth Shot In Abdomen While Hunting Sparrows

New London—A .22 caliber bullet, lodged in the chest of Leonard Paap, 21, route 3, New London, was removed at Memorial hospital this morning. Paap's condition was described as "good."

The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paap, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen about 8:30 Friday morning, the bullet lodging between his ribs and heart. According to his own account, he was shooting sparrows on his father's farm in Lebanon when he laid down the gun it discharged.

Valley Council to Honor 9 Scouters For Long Service

Recognition Will be Accorded at Annual Dinner Meeting

Nine Valley Council scouters will be honored at the annual meeting Feb. 25 for having aided scout activities for 15 years or longer. Waldo Friedland, Menasha, is general chairman in charge of the annual meeting which will be held at the S. A. Cook armory, Neenah-Menasha.

Scouters to be honored are Dr. J. M. Donovan, Neenah; Frank B. Younger, Menasha; E. E. Thomas, Chris E. Mullen and W. E. Schubert, Appleton; Max Stieg, Clintonville; the Rev. Lorenz Knutzen, Seymour; H. L. Gear and Waldo Friedland, Menasha.

Dr. Donovan has served on the executive board of the Valley Council since its organization and has been in scouting for 16 years. Mr. Younger is a member of the executive board and started as a scoutmaster in Kaukauna, 19 years ago. He has served on the executive board and organized early scout troops in the council.

Served 25 Years
Starting as a scoutmaster in Milwaukee 25 years ago, E. E. Thomas has aided scout activities since that time and is now a scout commissioner. Mr. Mullen is a board member and has been a scoutmaster and committee member for 16 years in Appleton.

W. E. Schubert is a board member and general chairman of the council camping committee. He started in scouting 16 years ago as a troop committee member in Milwaukee and has been in the same position at Seymour.

17 Years in Field
The Rev. Lorenz Knutzen has been a member of the valley council troop committee since 1935 but has served 17 years in scouting starting as a scoutmaster at Appleton and continuing in the same position at Seymour.

H. L. Gear was a member of the early scouting groups organized in the twin cities and at present is on the camping committee. Waldo Friedland, general chairman of the annual meeting, was a member of the original First Congregational church scout troop at Menasha. He served on local scout committees and is a member of the executive board.

Arraign Three on Speeding Charges

Drivers Fined $10 and Costs Each in Municipal Court

Three drivers were fined in municipal court Friday afternoon for this morning when they pleaded guilty to speeding.

Arnold J. Missling, 617 N. Morris on street, a truck driver, was accused of going 35 miles an hour on S. Oneida street and paid $10 and costs this morning.

Fred Whitman, E. John street, accused of driving 35 miles an hour on W. College avenue, and Harold Shlimovitz, 413 W. Commercial street, charged with driving 35 miles an hour on Badger avenue, were in court Friday afternoon and each was fined $10 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan.

Basketball Tournaments Planned by High Girls

Inter-class and intramural basketball tournaments will be held by members of the Appleton High school girls' gym classes after fund-raising of the game have been learned. Mrs. Edith Jorgensen is in charge of drills which thus far have featured passing, dribbling and shooting. Members of the class also are participating in ping pong, badminton and shuffleboard tournaments.

Dr. Cox Will Speak At Student Assembly

Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will discuss the life of George Washington at an Appleton High school student assembly at 2:35 Monday afternoon. No general program is planned for the school although some home rooms will have special recitations in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

Movies Will Feature Conservation Meeting

Three reels of movies showing work at the experimental game and fur farm at Portnette will feature the conservation study class meeting Wednesday night at the vocational school. E. M. For is in charge of the group which meets from 7:15 to 9:15 every Wednesday night and considers conservation problems.

Circulate Petition For Pavilion in Park

Circulation of a petition requesting a pavilion for Erb park is being circulated in the city. Some of the signers of the petition have expressed a hope that the pavilion will be erected so it can be used this summer. The petition is likely to be brought before the common council at its next regular meeting.

11 Auto Accidents In County Reported To State in January

Eleven automobile accidents but no fatalities in Outagamie county during January were reported to the state highway commission, a report to the Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety council shows. Two fatalities have occurred this month.

The January record shows three accidents in which personal injuries occurred and eight in which only property damage was involved.

Five of the mishaps occurred at intersections of roads or streets, five on straight roads and one on a curve. Seven occurred between 2 and 6 o'clock in the morning. All 11 accidents occurred in clear weather but six occurred on wet, icy or snow covered pavement.

Phil's Program Taking Shape at Badger Capital

Governor Outlines Three Important Legislative Proposals

Madison—(P)—Governor LaFollette drew the outlines of his legislative program this week.

He asked the senate and assembly to select a joint committee to work with him on legislation for reorganization of the state government. He proposed a judicial retirement plan and suggested placing the leverage tax division under civil service as a part of the tax commission instead of the treasury department.

These were the governor's first moves, except for the budget bill, to carry out his announced intention to submit his plans periodically during the session.

The lawmakers approved his request for a special committee to frame laws embodying recommendations of the citizens' committee on public welfare, which will report its findings regarding pensions, juvenile delinquency, penal and charitable institutions.

No Early Adjournment
Demands for a five-day working week to speed up the session echoed in the capitol. The hope expressed by Senator Philip Nelson (R), Maple, "that we won't have to stay in Madison all summer," focused attention on the developments tending to minimize chances for an early adjournment.

1—The involved tasks inherent in the governor's steps toward reorganization.

2—The heavy outputs of the legislature's "bill factory"—a total of 1,064 bills at the deadline for introduction of measures by individual members.

3—A tendency of the senate to break the ranks of the Progressive coalition, raising doubt of the party's precarious control.

Balance Of Power
Senate rejection of the nomination of John H. Bickley to the public service commission centered the spotlight again on the key votes of Senators Nelson, Arthur Zimny (D) Milwaukee, and John Cashman (P), Denmark. Progressives need support of Nelson and Zimny to gain a 15-15 advantage so long as Cashman votes with the Democrat-Republican opposition. On an increasing number of unimportant roll calls these three senators have given the "minority" an 18 to 15 victory.

In the assembly there has been some sparring for votes between the two sides, but in each showdown the Progressives have asserted control.

Both houses passed bills solving the public service commission dilemma temporarily—permitting one commissioner to act in case of vacancies—and extending mortgage moratorium laws two more years.

No Action On Probe
The first request for a legislative inquiry struck a snag when the assembly agriculture committee postponed action on a resolution for an investigation of the state department of agriculture and markets pending a conference with the governor.

During the customary introduction of bills by title only, to come under the deadline, Senators Cashman and Conrad Shearer (R), Kenosha, served notice they would offer a new method of selecting members of the university board of regents. They attended the hearing at which the board dismissed Dr. Glenn Frank as university president.

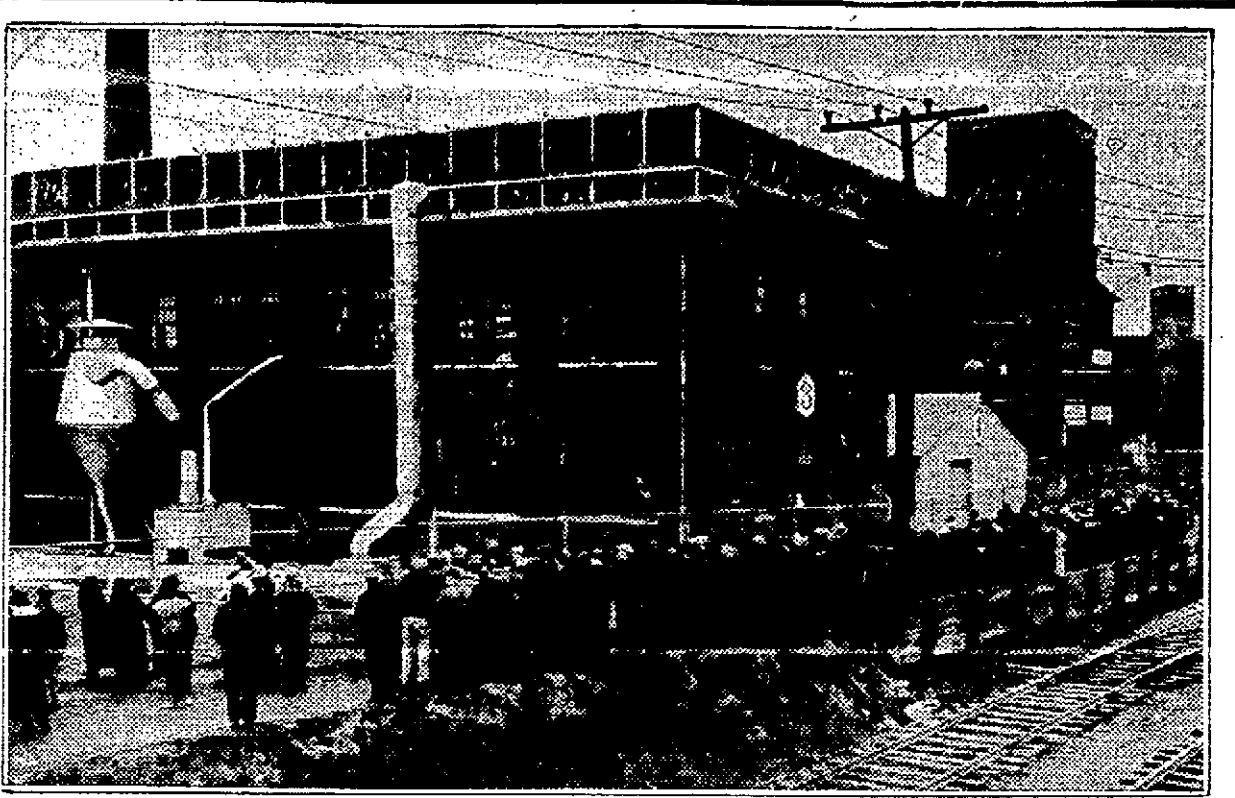

Senator Arthur Zimny indicated he would present some idea on gambling legislation. He introduced by title bills to establish a Wisconsin horse racing commission and legalize pari-mutuel wagers, regulate bank night drawings and the operation of coin vending machines.

Stiner's Team Leads in School Volleyball Loop

C. Stiner's volleyball team, the Jacks, has won two games to take undisputed possession of first place in the Cards league at McKinley Junior High school. The Aces captained by Bernger has won one and lost one game as have the Queens under Heule Cotter is captain of the Kings squad which has dropped its only two starts.

In the Color league, G. Kain's Red team has split even in its two games with the White squad led by G. Swamp. These are the only two teams in the loop.

Attorneys See Merit in State Plan for Judges

Approval of all or part of Governor LaFollette's proposed retirement plan for Wisconsin supreme court and circuit court judges, has been expressed by a number of attorneys here.

The LaFollette plan provides that any justice of the supreme court who shall have served 10 years or more and any circuit judge who shall have served 15 years or more may retire on half pay at any time between 65 and 70 years of age. It also provides that any justice of the supreme court who shall have served five years may retire at any time during his seventieth year.

To be eligible for the half-pay, however, a justice or judge must retire on reaching 70. Any justice or judge now over 70 may elect to come within provisions of the plan at any time within six months of its adoption.

Alfred S. Bradford, president of the county bar association, said he favored the plan as it was reported in newspaper and that something of the kind should have been done long ago. He pointed out, however, that the state proposal is entirely different than the president's proposed reorganization of the federal judiciary.

"It's a good plan inasmuch as it offers some kind of retirement income for the judges," E. R. Honkamp stated. "I don't believe there should be any compulsion attached to the resignations. If judges are unfit for office, the people will vote."

Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner, head of the Wisconsin Board of Circuit Judges, declined to comment on the plan and explained that he had not yet heard the opinions of other circuit judges in the matter.

Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, said he favored the retirement income feature of the bill but that he questioned the wisdom of making judges who elect to continue on the bench after they reach 70 entirely ineligible for such retirement benefits.

Oscar J. Schmieg said "The governor's plan is commendable. While many judges are able and vigorous at 70, others not so fortunate who would like to retire are sometimes unable to do so because of financial reasons. The plan proposed by the governor appears not to be motivated by political considerations but by a genuine desire for a vigorous and able judiciary. The general sentiment seems to be that it is superior to the one now being considered by congress in its effect and purpose."

Class Officers Named at School Election Takes Place of Regular Student Assembly

Class officers for the second semester were elected by McKinley Junior High school students Friday during the regular assembly period. Warren Smith was named president of the 9X section with Alice McCarter, vice president; Grace Fahrerkug, secretary and treasurer; Mildred Leisner, Edwin Kerswill and John Parks, council members; Gerry Busse and Ruth Gust, cheerleaders.

The 8Y officers are: Constance Kaspar, president; Rita Diemerle, vice president; Robert Stuebel, secretary; Clarence Schiller, treasurer; Gordon Coffer, William Thompson and Margaret Davidson, council members.

Phyllis Turney is president of the eighth grade with Dorothy Nisson, vice president; Ruby Parker, secretary; George Snow, treasurer; Gordon Forsteth and Violet Olson, council members; Clara Mae Rhoder and Jake Pauer, cheerleaders.

Seventh grade pupils elected include Marion Fredericks, president; George Deeg, vice president; Norman Abel, secretary; John Taggeri, treasurer; Florence Hove and Wayne Koester, council members; Betty Deeg and Ella Filz, cheerleaders.

Must File Social Security Reports Before March 1

Establish Field Office at Green Bay Federal Building

Employer's social security tax remittances should be mailed directly to the collector of internal revenue at Milwaukee and not sent to the Appleton post office, Stephen D. Balliet, postmaster, reiterated this morning. The first tax return must be filed before March 1.

Wage records of all workers for whom social security accounts have been started in this area will be maintained at the Green Bay field office of the social security board in the post office. Anyone may secure accurate information concerning the security law at this office.

The 1 per cent deducted from the wages of employees plus similar amounts added by the employers during the month of January are due any time in February. Remittances may be made by check, money order or draft. Do not send stamps in payment of such taxes. The monthly total should be sent to the collector of internal revenue, post office, Milwaukee, before Feb. 28, accompanied by an execution blank known as form SS-1.

This form, the SS-1, is the first report any employer is concerned with, and is to be filled out in quadruplicate (4 copies) covering the month of January. It includes the total number of employees, the total wages paid these employees during the month of January, the total tax deducted from all employees, the employer's contribution and the total combined amount of taxes due. If the total tax is more than $10, the form will have to be notarized; if less than $10 the signatures of two witnesses are all that is necessary.

Summary Report Due June 30
The first summary report which will furnish the government with specific details about employees and their payments will be due on June 30 of this year. Employers will be notified of their identification numbers in time to make this report and should not be concerned if they have not at this date received such numbers. Every three months thereafter every employer will be required to make an informational return to the bureau of internal revenue containing a summarized total of taxable wages, taxes paid and the amount of wages paid to each employee. Form SS-2 is prescribed for reporting the summarized information and form SS-2a for reporting the wages of individual employees.

All taxes must be paid to the collector of internal revenue at Milwaukee and not to the social security board or any of its branches.

All Should Register
Employers should not refuse employment to workers for lack of an account number. Deductions may be made while the application for an account number is filed. It is not necessary for an employee, in order to obtain a job, to have an account number; but it is necessary for every eligible employee to obtain one as soon as possible. In this connection, every person below the age of 65 who is a prospective employee—even though unemployed at the present time—should apply at the post office for an account number.

There is no minimum age limit. All workers except those in the excluded fields must obtain account numbers. The brevity of the working period, irregularity of pay and the amount of wages do not affect the position of the employer or the eligibility of the employee with respect to the provisions of the social security act.

Exemptions Listed
The only persons excluded are those past 65 years of age and those working in the excepted fields, enumerated in the social security act which include agricultural labor, domestic service, casual labor, service with certain non-profit organizations and government service. All others are required to apply for an account number.

Earnings beyond $3,000 from any single employer in any calendar year are not taxable. As soon as the amount of $3,000 has been taxed, no further payments are necessary. It is not permissible for employers to apportion the taxes by paying on one month even if the wages for the month exceed that amount. For example: if a person earns $3,600 per year, or $300 per month, employer and employee each contribute $3.00

Green Bay and Appleton "Y" Athletes to Clash

A final match to settle the intercity Y. M. C. A. athletic championship will be staged March 1 at the Appleton "Y" when the Green Bay dormitory team clashes with the local Y. M. C. A. aggregation. Each team has won one match this year on their home floors.

Events scheduled include handball, bowling, ping pong, bridge, pool, billiards, basketball and doubles in handball and ping pong. About 40 athletes are expected to represent the local group with more than 20 planning to attend from Green Bay.

Wisconsin 5th In Production Of Paper Goods

Report Increase in Output In Badger State During 1935

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Wisconsin ranked second in the country in the total value of paper products put out in 1935, the Commerce Department reports, and fifth in quantity of production.

Paper production in the Badger state in 1935 increased over 1933 in quantity, from 718,473 short tons to 792,117, and in value, from $50,273,633 to $63,512,115.

Both production and employment in the paper industry in the country as a whole in 1935 increased substantially as compared with 1933, according to the report.

Total production of paper and paperboard in 1935 amounted to 10,506,195 tons valued at $46,235,141 as compared with 1933 production of 9,190,017 tons valued at $31,552,577 for 1933.

The number of wage earners employed in the industry increased 18.5 per cent with the rate of increase in wage payments 35.9 per cent, topping the 1929 figure.

Production Up
Total production of tissue paper in the United States in 1935 was 473,314 short tons valued at $46,235,141 as compared with 1933 production totaling 406,760 short tons valued at $27,711,156.

The manufacture of toilet paper in 1935 represented nearly half the total production and value of the tissue paper group. In 1935, total output of toilet paper in the country was 223,712 short tons valued at $17,381,094 showing an increase over 1933 production amounting to 202,861 short tons valued at $16,033,585.

Production of high grade tissue, wrapping, napkin towel and waxing tissue taken as one group showed considerable increase both in quantity and value in 1935 as compared with 1933. Output of napkins in 1935 reached 40,726 short tons valued at $4,230,524. Production of paper towels was 48,138 short tons valued at $5,217,626.

Native Wisconsin Trees

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

SOUTHERN COTTONWOOD The cottonwood is distributed over the entire state but is rare in the northern portion. It occurs on river bottoms and lake shores, but does well when planted on drier sites. It attains a height of 70 to 90 feet with a trunk diameter of 3 to 5 feet, forming a spreading open symmetrical crown, often dividing

20 or 30 feet from the ground into several massive limbs. The leaves are broadly ovate or triangular pointed, square at the base, and coarse-toothed at the edges, 3 to 5 inches long, light green above and paler below. The male and female flowers occur on separate trees. The winter buds are covered with chestnut brown resinous scales.

The bark becomes ashy gray, deeply divided into broad rounded ridges. The wood is soft, light weight, with dark brown heartwood and thick nearly white sapwood. It warps badly in drying and is difficult to season, but the pulp makes the highest grade of gloss magazine paper.

This species grows very rapidly; having been known to grow five feet in height in a single year. It is well adapted to wet places, especially along river bottoms, and is propagated by cuttings. While not desirable for city planting, it makes a good shade tree, especially on sandy soils where better trees will not thrive.

Heavy Building Program Is Indicated in Kimberly

Kimberly—The building program in the village this summer may exceed that of last year. A number of residents are already making plans for new homes and will build as soon as the weather permits.

Peter Van Loon, who sold his home about two weeks ago, will build a new home on Kimberly avenue near the Kimberly Dairy. Willard Vander Velden has purchased a lot from John Laeyen-decker and will build soon. John Vanderveul has recently purchased a new home on Walnut and Second street and is now residing there. Dr. B. W. Curlian moved into his new home and office on Kimberly avenue last week.

Carl Kueser and William Dupont, who have purchased lots on Birch street, plan to build in the near future. Frank Bowers, who has a lot on Maple street, also plans to build. A new home built by William Geenen near the greenhouse is nearly completed.

About fifteen new homes were built last year in addition and much repair work was done by home owners. Sun and screen porches were erected and asbestos shingles added to a number of houses. Many basements have been dug and water works added. A number of garages were also constructed.

Carpenters reported a busy season any many worked through the winter and have a lot of building for this year.

Mrs. Frank Courchane entertained a card club at her home Thursday evening. Schafkopf was played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Frank Courchane Sr. and Mrs. Orville Albers. Others attending were: Mrs. Treff Courchane, Mrs.

Guy Stevens Funeral Conducted at Manawa

Manawa — Funeral services for Guy Stevens, 52, former resident of the town of Little Wolf and member of a widely known local family, were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Voss chapel here, by the Rev. N. J. Alderson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Manawa. Burial was in the Manawa cemetery.

Mr. Stevens, a resident of Turtle Falls, Minn., died of pneumonia at a hospital in Fergus Falls, Minn., Tuesday morning. He had been ill only a week. The body was brought to Manawa Thursday for burial. Born in Little Wolf township on

Handrich to Discuss Fire Fighting Moves In Rural Districts

Fremont — The trend in the rural fire department movement, including the proposal under consideration by Fremont and nearby towns, will be discussed simultaneously over two radio stations when Wau-paca county's Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, Manawa, will be introduced by Raymond C. Zuehlke, Fremont, at 1:15 Tuesday afternoon.

The radio interview will be presented directly from the state capitol building at Madison over WHA and WLEB, Stevens Point.

Current legislation, as well as existing laws relating to volunteer fire associations, including cooperative rural fire departments of several units, will be explained.

The Wolf River Homemakers' club held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emil Rastau. The lessons of "Different Kinds of Hand Lotions," "Face Creams and Hand Shampoo Demonstration" was given by Miss Helen Briggs, club leader. The next meeting will be held Thursday, March 11, at the home of Mrs. Fred Sasse.

Twenty-one tables were in play in the second of a series of card parties Thursday evening at the village hall by Wolf River Post No. 391, American Legion. Winners at schafkopf were Mrs. Carrie Springer, first, and Edwin Ratzburg, second. Prizes at five hundred went to Mrs. George H. Dobbins, first, and Mrs. Arlin Pitt, second.

Herman Braun, town of East Bloomfield farmer, who has been confined to his home most of the time since in April of last year, as the result of a leg injury received when kicked by a horse at his home was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton, where the leg was amputated above the knee, Thursday.

Louis Dews, route 2, Dale, brother of John Dews and Mrs. John Yankee, is seriously ill at his home as the result of a heart attack.

March 22, 1885, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens. Guy spent the early years of his life on the home farm. He later lived at Ten Strike, Minn., then came back to Wisconsin to make his home at Eland and Marathon. He had been at Turtle Lake only about two years.

Survivors include his widow; one son, Harold, of Wausau; a daughter, Mrs. Albert Bloecher, Wittenberg; five brothers, Ben and Harry, Manawa, Lyman, Clintonville; George, Weyauwega, and Sam, Green Bay; two sisters, Mrs. Alvin Haight, Manawa, and Mrs. Knute Strand, Ten Strike, Minn.

Pioneer Society Members to Hear Of Old Appleton

Public Program Will Start At 1:30 Monday Afternoon

Days when Appleton was a small community will be recalled for members of the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society by John B. Macfarlane, M. E. Raney of Lawrenceville, Ga., at the sixth annual meeting of the society Monday at meetings of Pythias hall.

The address on "Old Appleton" will feature the public program which starts at 1:30 in the afternoon. Members will hold their annual meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning to elect four new directors and hear reports of officers. At 11:30 the board of directors will meet and officers will be chosen. A 12 o'clock luncheon will be served to members, their families and guests.

Songs, dances and speeches will be included in the afternoon program with the Rev. John B. Hanna of the First Congregational church saying the opening prayer and closing benediction. Other persons on the program are: Evangeline Farwell, Robert F. McGilgan, Beverly Rehmer, Buddy Kohl, Lolly Dohl.

DEATHS

BRYAN O'CONNELL

Bryan O'Connell, 75, route 2, Appleton, died at 4:30 this morning at his home after a lingering illness. Born in Maple Grove, Manitowish county, Jan. 1, 1862, Mr. O'Connell moved to Hennessey, Okla., in 1910. After three years there, he moved to Oshkosh and in 1917 he settled on a farm near Appleton where he had lived since that time.

Mr. O'Connell was a member of St. Mary's church, the Holy Name society, Men's Catholic Order of Foresters and the Modern Woodmen.

Survivors include the widow; three daughters, Mrs. Harold J. Schultz and Mrs. Clarence Demol, both of Appleton; Mrs. Morgan Jorgensen, Neenah; three sons, William and Clifford at home; Henry, route 2, Appleton; one brother, James, Brillant; 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the residence and at 9:30 St. Mary's church. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. The body will be at the residence from 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon to the hour of services. Prayers will be said by the Men's Catholic Order of Foresters at 7:30 Monday evening and by the Holy Name society at 8 o'clock Monday night.

MORGAN FUNERAL
The body of John Morgan, who died yesterday, will be at the Schommer Funeral home from this evening until time of services at 8:30 Monday morning at the funeral home and 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church. Prayers will be said at 7:30 this evening by the Appleton Apostolate, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Catholic Daughters of America, at 7:30 Sunday evening by the Catholic Order of Foresters and at 8:30 by the Holy Name society and Knights of Columbus.

MUTTART FUNERAL
Funeral services for Mrs. Francis Mutart, 93, 614 W. Atlantic street, who died Thursday morning, were held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at the Wittmann Funeral home and at 9:30 at St. Theresa church with the Rev. M. A. Hauch in charge. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Bearers were Raymond Mutart, Ben. Harold and Richard Zuelger; Jervis Joseph and Lowell Little.

Seek Cooperation for Badger 'Good Will Tour'

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — Cooperation of the legislature and other departments of the state government with the Wisconsin "good will tour" planned for 1938 and 1939 is asked by Senator Herman J. Severson (D), Iowa, in a resolution introduced in the state senate Friday. Severson, who represents Waupaca and Portage counties, pointed out in his resolution that the tour is intended to advertise Wisconsin's industrial, agricultural and recreational resources.

Severson's resolution asks the legislature to direct the department of agriculture and markets, public instruction, and conservation, with the other arms of the state government, to cooperate in the project. The tour made in 1928, 1929 and 1930, he said, carried Wisconsin products more than 12,000 miles, through 26 states.

Senator Severson this week introduced another measure, a bill which would establish a state automobile liability insurance fund.

The bill would establish this fund under the insurance commission and provides that the state should not be liable beyond the amount of the fund set aside for the purpose of paying all claims under the liability policies issued by the state. The state treasurer would be made the ex-officio treasurer and custodian of the fund and will be required to post a separate bond.

The insurance commission would be empowered to make necessary rules for the selling of automobile liability insurance by the state.

Another bill presented by the Waupaca county senator would modify the law which forbids public officers to contract for government units or departments with businesses with which they are connected.

The bill asks that repositories of public funds and the publication of legal notices by school boards, cities, or villages, be exempted from those transactions and businesses in which a public officer is forbidden to contract.

Senator Michael Kresley (D), Green Bay, has introduced a bill which would make minor modifications in the regulation by cities, towns and villages of common carriers operating within their limits or on their streets.

Insurance Agents Will Attend District Meet

George C. Nixon, Carl A. Sherry and Edward Pfeiffer, agents, will attend the district meeting of the Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States at Hotel Rauff, Oshkosh, Monday, J. W. Stennis, Oshkosh district manager, is making arrangements for the affair which will start at about 10:30 in the morning.

Farmer Missing From Shawano County Home

Shawano — County authorities were asked today to hunt for Ira Newton, who disappeared Feb. 12 while walking from Shawano to his farm home nine miles west of here. Newton, 61, wore dark trousers, a dark coat, flannel shirt, and a dark cap. He was described as 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighing 160 pounds. He had graying brown hair.

Sale of School Bonds Completed in Chicago

Mayor Goodland signed his name 481 times yesterday when he put his signature on $481,000 in bonds for the new senior high school sold to the Harris Trust and Savings bank at Chicago. The bonds are of $1,000 denomination. Mayor Goodland, City Treasurer Joseph A. Koo, and City Clerk Carl Becher completed the bond transaction in Chicago Friday.

Blanket of Fog Envelops City; Rain Predicted

Precipitation Last Night Amounted to .19 of An Inch

Fog, typical of that which envelops London, blanketed Appleton and vicinity this morning and will give motorists plenty of driving trouble if it does not disappear before nightfall.

Rain may fall in this section of the state, the weatherman says, indicating that there will be little change in temperature before tomorrow night. Clouded skies will remain over Sunday.

Many snow-covered low areas were turned into shallow lakes with the light rain that fell last night and early this morning. The precipitation amounted to .19 of an inch. Maximum and minimum temperatures of 40 and 34 degrees were reported in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The temperature at noon today was 40 degrees.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were: Abilene, Tex., 78, Miami, Fla., 76, Williston, Mont., 2, and Yellowstone National park 10 degrees below zero.

State Added to Pine Blister Control Area

Washington — The agriculture department announced the state of Maryland, Ohio, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania would be added to the white pine blister rust control areas effective March 1.

Both the planting and possession of current and goose-berry plants are prohibited in the areas. The department said the guarantee is to prevent the introduction of the alternate host plants of the disease. Current and gooseberry plants into the portions of the state where five-leaved yew are of economic importance and from which such hosts have been or are being removed.

Woman Gets Divorce On Grounds of Cruelty

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Mrs. Angeline Techlin, Appleton, obtained a divorce from Henry W. Techlin, Appleton, in the circuit court of Judge Edgar V. Weiner this morning.

The couple married in Appleton Feb. 21, 1936 and separated last month. There were no children and no alimony was ordered, but a property settlement was approved.

Check Ticket Sales For Boy Scout Meet

In an effort to discover just how many tickets for the Valley Council Boy Scout annual dinner meeting may be sold in Appleton and the two cities, Richard W. Mahony, commissioner, today is checking ticket sales in other council cities. The meeting will be held Thursday evening Feb. 25 at S. A. Cook armory, Neenah-Menasha.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR
An automobile owned by Dr. Stephan Konz, 227 W. Lawrence street, stolen from in front of the Konz residence last night, was recovered today. The automobile had been abandoned on the old Manitowish road off Highway 10 in Calumet county.

It Is Said--

THAT a local garageman was the victim of an ingenious trick whereby a scheming autoist had his car repaired without having to pay. Approaching the garageman, the autoist said he had been instructed by a local minister to have his car repaired after an accident for which the minister was blamed. When the car had been repaired and the man left, the minister mentioned was called and it was found knowing about the accident.

That members of the Valley Council Boy Scout sustaining committee really went to work this morning to select teammates for the annual drive for funds March 1 and 2. Homer Gebhardt called an Appleton man at 8 o'clock this morning and asked him to serve on his team. The prospective worker calmly informed Mr. Gebhardt that he was the third committeeman calling him this morning.

That the popularity of the card games played daily in the card room in the basement of the city hall has caused a shortage of playing cards. Sometimes as many as 50 and 60 men gather there to play. Persons wishing to donate useable cards are asked by the "old-timers" to leave them at the playing room.

That the flag pole that occupied a prominent place on Soldiers square before being removed when the boulevard was converted into a parking area for cars will be given a new location soon. It will be erected at the city sewage disposal plant.

ASKS $500,000 BALM OF RUBINOFF

Testimony that Dave Rubinoff, violinist, asked her direct question "Would you marry me?" was given by Peggy Garcia, former New York hatcheck girl, at the hearing of her $500,000 breach of promise suit against the musician. Miss Garcia, shown on stand, later related, with tears, how she lost her husband after he learned of her romance with Rubinoff. (Associated Press Photo)

National Puzzlers' League Ready To Go 'a Little Beyond Einstein'

BY ROGER D. GREENE

New York — Cerebral gymnasts from all over the nation went into brain-bruising action today as delegates to the 10th semi-annual convention of the National Puzzlers' League, 200 strong, began a three-day session of baffling each other.

Super-diviners of enigmas, they mostly snuffed at such child's play as cross-word puzzles or the homely riddles that ask "what is it?" in rhymes.

"Nursery Stuff," they said, and furrowed their brows over numerical problems reaching into the fifth dimensions—a mere matter of one plane higher than Einstein's theory of relativity.

There was Cipriano Ferraris, for example, who tossed off this trifling riddle to inquiring reporters. "Find the square of five certain numbers, minus the square of five prime numbers, multiply by the total of five certain composite numbers, and at last divide by a certain perfect number."

That was about the easiest Ferraris could think up, and he said it would be awful if it got into the newspapers that he even remembered "little parlor games like that. He said it would hurt his reputation."

A thin little man from the Bronx with a bulging forehead and excited eyes, Ferraris said he could hardly wait to show his new octahedron puzzle to the puzzlers. It was 44 inches long by 44 inches wide, and he said it would make almost all the puzzlers dizzy, even the best puzzlers.

This was the "fifth dimension" item, which he said didn't make Einstein exactly look silly but certainly "has something" a little beyond Einstein.

He said he could reach the sixth dimension if he had a big enough sheet of paper, but most of the reporters had fled by the time he finished explaining in a vague but vitally earnest sort of way what the fifth dimension was.

Most of the delegates are professors and doctors and lawyers. They don't go by their right names. It is all anonymous. Cipriano, for instance, is "Fubinese," which comes from his native town of Fubini, Italy. David Shulman, the boy wonder of the puzzle world and reputedly the best all-around puzzler in the country, is "Ab Struse."

A close friend might call him "Ab" or even "Abie," but anything else would be heresy.

Just as a fluffing period of relaxation, the puzzlers had a spelling bee scheduled for late today, with such words on the list as corythos, syzygum, glycyrrhiza and pterodactyl.

It is a bad place for reporters.

Wisconsin G-Man Chief Gets St. Louis Office

St. Louis — V. W. Peterson, special agent in charge of the Wisconsin headquarters, department of justice bureau of criminal investigation, will take charge of the St. Louis bureau in a few days.

Peterson, in charge of the office since its establishment here May 15, 1935, will succeed Jay C. Newman, who has been transferred to Detroit. Newman and Peterson participated in the pitched battle with John Dillinger's gang at Little Bohemia, near Manitowish in 1934. Newman was wounded.

Farm Youth Gets 3-Year Sentence

Frank Oskey, 24, Goes to State Reformatory at Green Bay

Frank Oskey, 24, town of Grand Chute, who pleaded guilty of unlawful entry, today was sentenced by Judge Thomas H. Ryan to three years in the state reformatory at Green Bay.

Oskey and three younger boys were accused of entering the Outagamie Paper mill at Kaukauna and taking brass plates and other equipment valued at $730. Two of the boys were taken into juvenile court and the third, 17 years old, was in municipal court with Oskey.

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr described Oskey as the leader of the group and asked the maximum penalty under the statute, three years.

Judge Ryan sentenced the young boy to not more than two years and placed him on probation to the state board of control, warning him that state board rules are intended to help and must be observed.

Senate Committee Will Report Neutrality Bill

Washington — (P)—The senate foreign relations committee voted today to report the Pittman permanent neutrality bill. Only Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) opposed it.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), author of the legislation, said he would submit the committee report Monday and hoped to bring the bill up in the senate for debate next week.

The bill would set up a permanent neutrality law, establishing an American policy that warning nations which want American goods must come and get them in their own ships.

Johnson, who voted against the measure, told newspaper men it was a "shotgun measure to keep us out of war and it doesn't do anything of the sort."

"It would take us into war rather than keep us out and be a source of infinite trouble," the California asserted.

Minnesota Coed Named Queen at Northwestern

Kaukauna — Pacing the Fargo Furniture team in its 3-game victory over the Quality Food Market, Mrs. L. Ryan's series of 545, built on games of 168, 198, and 179, stood far above any other individual performance in the Ladies' league bowling at Schell alleys this week. Both her series and second game were high and her last game was second best in the evening's activity.

Mrs. M. Lucassen's scores of 147, 182, and 167 for a 496 were outstanding in the Caldies. Beauty Shop's lineup as they won two out of three games from the Shady Lawn Dairy. Another Caldie bowler, Mrs. E. Steinacker, did highly creditable work with 139, 172, and 155 for a 406.

Third highest series, behind Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. Lucassen, was made by Charlotte Mayer, a member of the Leone Beauty Shop five. She shattered the pins for games of 170, 157 and 157 for a 484 as her team won three straight from the Business and Professional Women.

The Weyenberg's Meat team out-bowled the Gertz Tavern five in three games, with Joyce Peterson's 392 series the best in the winners' column.

Other commendable scores are as follows: Gertrude Grobe, Caldies, 158, 152, 139, 449; Gertrude Dittler, Quality Food Market, 146, 148, 147, 441; Alma Renn, B. & P. W., 128, 160, 148, 436; Nedra Nickles, B. & P. W., 172, 115, 132, 419.

Threat to Freedom Of Press Seen in Radio Owner Bill

Measure Would Deprive Papers of Right to Broadcast Station Ownership

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Not content with political control over the executive and legislative branches of the government, President Roosevelt has taken a position which is bound to be construed as a reaching out on his part for control of something else besides the supreme court of the United States, namely control of the radio and the press.

The president has significantly permitted by his executive agencies to look sympathetically on a bill now pending in congress which proposes to divest newspapers of any ownership in radio broadcasting stations. If the power to do this by act of congress exists—and this certainly never would be sanctioned as constitutional by any independent judiciary—then the power of the president of the United States and the congress to regulate the ownership of newspapers on the same pretext—the regulation of commerce—becomes automatically constitutional.

The proposed bill to separate newspapers from broadcasting stations would naturally affect publications friendly as well as unfriendly to the president in the last election campaign. Thus, Judge Bingham, American ambassador to Great Britain, owns the "Courier Journal" at Louisville, which, in turn, owns station WHAS. There are other stations in the south owned by newspapers which are staunch political supporters of the administration. If, however, the bill as finally enacted should vest in the federal communications commission power to allow licenses within its discretion to owners then, in the judgment of his associates on the commission, the "public interest" is not impaired, the way is opened for issuance of licenses to certain newspapers which are supporters and to be denied to other newspapers which oppose an administration's policies. Control of the press is simple under such a device.

Little Power Now

The present law plainly does not give any power to the communications commission to issue or deny a license on any ground except "public interest, convenience and necessity," and there are precedents in supreme court decisions which indicate that these phrases relate only to mechanical questions having to do with wave lengths and not to the character of programs or the nature of the ownership of stations.

But it is interesting to note that Sampson Gary, general counsel for the federal communications commission, has sent a report to Senator Wheeler, transmitting a formal opinion on the questions of constitutional law involved. Mr. Gary says in part:

"I am of the opinion that the mutual ownership and control of newspapers and broadcasting stations bears a reasonable relation to and has an effect upon interstate commerce and, therefore, if the congress enacted a law of the purport suggested, it should meet the constitutional requirements."

"It is well settled that all radio broadcasting is within the regulatory power of congress under the commerce clause of the constitution and the power to regulate includes the power to prohibit."

Limited Authority

As a matter of fact, it has not been settled at all that congress can prohibit the movement of goods in interstate commerce except in the case of articles themselves injurious or having harmful consequences. Congress, of course, can pass laws prohibiting the transmission of programs offending common decency or containing libelous material, but this is a far cry from regulating the programs which are otherwise lawful and otherwise injurious in themselves to public health or morals, or from regulating who shall or who shall not own a broadcasting station.

The general counsel of the commission went on to say that some of the press is being bridled by a reasonable regulation of commerce, promulgated by congress under constitutional authority for the protection of all the people, including the press.

Continuing further, Mr. Gary's formal opinion says:

Sees No Abridgment

"It is submitted that legislation such as that proposed would constitute no abridgment of freedom of speech or of the press since ownership or control of a radio broadcasting station is not essential to the right to speak or the dissemination of news, and the owning or controlling of a broadcasting station as a business has nothing to do with the freedom of speech or of the press as such, because the newspaper would still have the same right to communicate by printing or broadcasting, which is enjoyed by any other person or class."

Now it so happens that the supreme court of the United States by unanimous opinion last year held just the opposite. This happened when Huey Long's attorneys tried to secure validation of a Louisiana statute putting a severe tax based on the circulation of newspapers. The Louisiana attorneys pleaded that newspapers, insofar as their revenues were concerned, were a business proposition and not in any way, therefore, immunized by the freedom of press clause in the constitution. The supreme court of the United States held that, of course, newspapers as a business were subject to taxation and to other laws affecting everybody else, but that to discriminate against newspapers as a class was a direct violation of the guarantees of free-

Emergency Over, at Least For Employes of New York

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Herbert Lehman, the governor of New York, who pays neither federal nor state income tax on his salary of $25,000 a year, has declared an end to the emergency which required reductions in the pay of 110,000 employes of New York City whose base wage is $2,000 a year, or more, and who pay no federal income tax on these salaries.

Many of them pay no state tax, either, although people in private business or private employ who live in Governor Lehman's state have to pay both taxes on incomes in the same brackets. In fact, your correspondent knows a young woman earning one-tenth of Governor Lehman's tax-exempt salary who pays both federal and state taxes, and is allowed no exemption for a younger sister's education because the sister is more than 18 and not a dependent in the strict legal sense.

Although the governor sees the end of the emergency which compelled the reduction of tax-exempt salaries, he does not yet see the end of the same emergency for those who provide his own $25,000 a year, including the young woman with the non-dependent but otherwise necessary sister. The young woman still has the special privilege of contributing out of her salary an extra emergency income tax of 1 per cent imposed by Governor Lehman for the period of the emergency.

Perhaps it is a mere coincidence that the governor discovered a way to increase the salaries of 110,000 voters in the public service whose salaries already were nicely within the income tax brackets but all exempt from federal taxation and, in many cases, from state taxation as well. This is a majority year in New York, and it is hard to see how this generosity to a well-paid mass of citizens, already enjoying an important advantage over the tax-paying types, will react against his party.

However, the federal and state salary reductions have been restored, and as these are all exempt from one or both income taxes it being unkind, to say nothing of its being damn bad politics to discriminate against the city employes. Sees Interesting Reaction

On Part of Deadheads

Your correspondent observes an interesting reaction on the part of the dead-head element of the nation, the tax-exempt employes of the federal, state, county and city governments, to the proposal that they should pay in their brackets on a common footing with those who support them. They have been exempt so long that they deem it outrageous to propose their inclusion in the tax group. Even though a person in private employ must pay taxes on an income of, say, $3,000 a year, a public employe, with his job-protection and his pension benefits nevertheless feels that he is the object of persecution or a hate-campaign when it is suggested that he and his next-door neighbor should be treated alike.

The subject is large, and is confused by the fact that many states have no state income tax. Thus, in Chicago and throughout Illinois, the extra public pay roll, an amount which would be appalling if the totals were not hidden in purposely jumbled politico records, is free of all income tax. In New York, at least, certain groups of state, county and city employes are nominally included in the state tax. The inclusion is more nominal than practical, however, for public servants usually get their jobs through political pull, and the same pull protects them in the highly improbable event of their being checked for the tax.

Applies Only to Salaries.

Not Accompanying Graft.

This applies only to salaries, of course, and not to graft from sand and gravel companies, dredging and construction companies, bonding and insurance business, gambling houses and brothels. In Chicago, of course, the revenue from gambling houses and brothels has always been important, and there as in New Orleans, the local organization works in harmony with the great, beneficent whole of the national administration. The government abandoned some indictments in New Orleans after Huey Long's death and the restoration of harmony.

New York, however, has an uncommonly hostile attitude toward a large group of commuters who live in New Jersey or Connecticut.

Could Add New Rules

If, therefore, congress were to be upheld by a new supreme court in the power to remove newspapers as a class from possible ownership of things that other citizens could own, the same paper could readily be invoked to declare by statute that newspapers could not print in a certain size or circulate in a particular area or publish within certain hours.

For hundreds of years the courts of Anglo-Saxon people have ruled against efforts by one method or another to impair the freedom of the press through attempts to put limitations on their business operations. Mr. Gary says that, once divested of ownership, newspaper owners can still transmit news in other ways. But if such a line of reasoning were accepted, congress could claim that it was not limiting freedom of the press when it limited the size of publications or their areas of circulation because it could argue that, after all, handbills, books, pamphlets, and billboards were still available to such persons for the wider presentation of their news or editorial ideas.

Among many well-informed lawyers who follow constitutional precedents, there seems little doubt that the proposal to separate newspapers from ownership of radio broadcasting stations is unconstitutional on its face because it is a direct interference with the freedom of the press and also a violation of the due process clause of the federal constitution. But what a new supreme court of the United States, consisting of six new justices, appointed under the present circumstances, might say about the constitution is something else again, and maybe General Counsel Gary's opinion will some day be constitutional law when an administration in power quietly assumes the right to control the various means of communicating news and ideas all the way from newspapers, the radio, the ownership of movie news reels, or television companies down to the smallest printing establishment of the nation.

Threat to Freedom Of Press Seen in Radio Owner Bill

Measure Would Deprive Papers of Right to Broadcast Station Ownership

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Not content with political control over the executive and legislative branches of the government, President Roosevelt has taken a position which is bound to be construed as a reaching out on his part for control of something else besides the supreme court of the United States, namely control of the radio and the press.

The president has significantly permitted by his executive agencies to look sympathetically on a bill now pending in congress which proposes to divest newspapers of any ownership in radio broadcasting stations. If the power to do this by act of congress exists—and this certainly never would be sanctioned as constitutional by any independent judiciary—then the power of the president of the United States and the congress to regulate the ownership of newspapers on the same pretext—the regulation of commerce—becomes automatically constitutional.

The proposed bill to separate newspapers from broadcasting stations would naturally affect publications friendly as well as unfriendly to the president in the last election campaign. Thus, Judge Bingham, American ambassador to Great Britain, owns the "Courier Journal" at Louisville, which, in turn, owns station WHAS. There are other stations in the south owned by newspapers which are staunch political supporters of the administration. If, however, the bill as finally enacted should vest in the federal communications commission power to allow licenses within its discretion to owners then, in the judgment of his associates on the commission, the "public interest" is not impaired, the way is opened for issuance of licenses to certain newspapers which are supporters and to be denied to other newspapers which oppose an administration's policies. Control of the press is simple under such a device.

Little Power Now

The present law plainly does not give any power to the communications commission to issue or deny a license on any ground except "public interest, convenience and necessity," and there are precedents in supreme court decisions which indicate that these phrases relate only to mechanical questions having to do with wave lengths and not to the character of programs or the nature of the ownership of stations.

THE MARCH STARTS BACK

One branch of the Arkansas legislature has already voted for prohibition. There can be no doubt that this is a natural revulsion of feeling against the abuses of alcohol, the drunkenness of the people and the indifference of the constituted authorities toward the enforcement of the law.

We have no illusions about prohibition. There is no doubt that either with it or without it we are going to have a plentiful array of problems. But it should be worth while to reflect upon our recent history that we may guard ourselves against wild and useless gestures that do not improve the situation but are likely to render it more unbearable.

During the long trip through the desert we heard a great deal from brewers and others who might be classified under the term, The Liquor Interests. They were going to be very good if they ever got back. They looked angelically as they even discussed the problem. There would be no more abuses like those which sent us into prohibition in 1918. Dispensers of alcoholic beverages who violated laws were to be thrown out and kept out. Minors would not be tolerated around taverns. Liquor would not be sold to those already bordering on intoxication. It was a beautiful scene these interests painted.

But what have they done about it? The protection of the public against the abuses of alcohol necessitate constant and eternal vigilance.

That promises have not materialized is borne out by the action of Little Rock. One by one, we expect, States will go dry again. Largely this is the fault of the liquor interests. They are not putting enough steam behind their orders. They are not cracking down on criminally inclined tavern keepers.

The pity of it all is that we have brewers and others in allied trades who are doing their level best to support true temperance. But the situation reveals the necessity of even more vigorous conduct upon their part.

We are satisfied that prohibition is not the answer to anything. Its evils were worse than the evils it attempted to cure.

But those in the liquor business better be reminded that prohibition carries with it an element of vengeance, a large dosage of punishment, and that when the people inflicted it upon the country before they obtained some satisfaction because it penalized people who had been altogether too indifferent to the inroads and ravages of alcohol.

THE NEW DRUG STORE

A fund of $3,000 has been subscribed to give Fordham University a model "Pharmacy of the Future." It is said to be the first project of its kind.

This pharmacy will not be the first in the country, however. Here and there, in the last few years, stores have been opened for pharmaceutical prescriptions alone. They are usually located near medical centers where there are many doctors' offices in the neighborhood and perhaps a hospital or two within reach of easy delivery. They are heartily approved by physicians, and seem to flourish without the adventitious aids of the usual drug store.

The new plan of putting the prescription department into a store of its own is not new. The old fashioned drug store used to be just that. It sold medicines and such few aids in illness as hot water bottles and oil silk. If a certain type of snake bite remedy was there found popular, what of it? It was a medicine, wasn't it? For colds, too, and some other weaknesses.

Now that the pharmacy has run its course, through a tiny, hidden room in the modern drug store back into the front windows again, what does it mean for the drug store? Certainly it bodes no harm, but merely a separation of duties, with prescriptions being made up in a house of their own. The American people could never get along again without the combination of newspapers, thermos bottles, ice cream, cigarettes, magazines, toothbrushes, sandwiches, rental fiction and miscellaneous junk which is so handily found on so many corners.

A BIG PRICE TO PAY

The columns of periodicals are filled with figures and estimates covering expenditures of European powers in war preparations. Because the figures stagger the imagination, one has difficulty in translating them into terms of the familiar.

We are inured to conversation in terms of billions, but how are we to realize how much a billion represents in terms of bread and butter?

We are afforded some help, however, and by indirection when it is reported that the Art Institute of Chicago has purchased paintings by two old Spanish masters, El Greco and Velasquez. The purchases were made at "bargain" prices because the money is so badly needed for war purposes.

We need never have seen the work of an "old master" in our lives. We can lack appreciation of art and yet realize that some things which a nation possesses have no price. They represent the glories of the past, they hold the hope of the future.

Paintings, in themselves, are but the symbols of culture which is able to produce greatness. As such, they are truly priceless, if only as testaments of vanished glories.

When such symbols are put on the auction block, the seller is surrendering something which cannot be replaced, something which is part of the nation's heritage.

It is as though we countenanced the sale of Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, to be set up as an exhibit in the coming International Exposition in Paris.

It is a big price to pay.

THE GREATEST CHALLENGE

Economists are fond of quoting the Brookings Institution. That fact-finding body gained wide currency for its studies showing that in 1929, when prosperity reached a new high level, one-half of United States families lived on $1,500 a year or less. Two-thirds received $2,000 a year or less. The Brookings Institution pointed out that in 1929 the latter figure could be considered the minimum necessary for ordinary subsistence.

The agitators were making substantially the same statements long before the Brookings Institution ever was heard of. Saying, less authoritatively, that even in good times over a period of many years, a majority of American families have had difficulty in getting by.

The statements were given new force by President Roosevelt in his inaugural address when he declared: "I see one-third of the nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished." The condition, he said, constitutes a "challenge to democracy."

It is a challenge, also, to the business leadership of the nation, to the men who have been seeking new markets, new outlets for the things they produce.

It is the greatest challenge that business has faced. It is good that it is being faced.

THOUGHT-PROVOKING TRAILERS

Trailers have just been in convention again. This is the seventeenth annual gathering of the Tin Can Tourists of the World. The T. C. T. was organized back in the days when the trailer as we know it now had scarcely been thought of, but when automobile owners were beginning to realize the freedom of the horseless carriage and the gasoline motor.

Those early "tin Lizzies" would look funny at today's conventions. At Sarasota, Fla., where the 3,000 men, women and children parked their mobile homes for the gathering, every sort of house on wheels was present, from the latest model de luxe streamlined land yacht to the small box-like affair with a bunk and a trunk rack.

The population consisted of the well-to-do, of retired old folks on modest pensions, and younger adventurers who figure that you have to eat no matter where you live, and it doesn't cost any more to live on wheels than on a brick and stone foundation.

Each year the conventions get bigger. At the latest one forty-five states and Canada were represented. The prize for long-distance travel went to a couple from Australia. No wonder real estate men, tax officers and school boards are wondering what is to come.

Opinions Of Others

THE SOUND OF HAMMERS

Home building has been slowed up by many things which no one seemed to know how to deal with. Just now its trouble is a simple one, easy to remedy.

Government guarantee of debentures issued by the Federal Housing Administration on construction loans expires July 1. Some bankers are refusing to make loans because there is little time remaining to complete buildings before expiration date. Apparently congress will extend the guarantee, but it should act promptly so that building favored by unusual weather conditions in a large portion of the country, may continue without a break.

Insured mortgages promise important permanent gains toward solution of the housing problem as well as temporary ones. They are part of the administration effort to establish a broad, nation-wide market for mortgages such as exists now for bonds of municipalities in any part of the United States. In the past home financing has been difficult and expensive because of the fact that mortgages, with all kinds of different terms and conditions, were salable only to investors close enough to the property involved to familiarize themselves with their worth.

Government insurance has eliminated second mortgages and has required standardized terms with long-time amortization provisions. It should be continued until the reserves are built up in the mutual mortgage insurance fund and the need of the government guaranty removed.—New York World-Telegram.

LIKE anyone else with joints in his arms, I am still not above throwing a snowball. In fact, a snowball in season is quite a throwing delicacy, and is also an excellent way to pry Timmie, the cocker spaniel, loose from a stray bone, old shoe, or vagrant piece of food which he is wont to find and work on during his walks.

People, however, are dubious targets, and there should be some rules drawn up by the school-age group on what is and what is not a fair target for a snowball. Top hats, despite the way cartoonists keep bringing them up as targets, are rarely seen about these parts and then generally only at hours when the snowball brigade is not active.

This was called to mind yesterday when your correspondent, driving near one of the junior high schools, came to an arterial sign and halted the steed. Nearby, waiting for traffic to clear, was a lass holding her ears, although the weather was balmy.

"They both hurt," I heard her tell a companion. Snow on her coat collar told the rest. She had been plunked in the head with a snowball. Yes, girls, ought to be excluded from the snowball target capacity, because—if for no other reason—very few of them can make and throw a quality snowball, and competition should be kept on an equitable basis.

Having touched several times in the past on the dangers of throwing at moving cars, I won't go into that again. But cars need to be put into the snowball code, too.

Cats can stay out of the snowball code, however, if I am to be consistent. I am still not above throwing a snowball at a cat, except that a cat is pretty hard to find outside during the snowball season.

Cats, unfortunately, are available usually only when the birds are about.

TO A SIGHTLESS FRIEND

On gloomy days I think about you more, You who are living sunlight lost in gloom. My thoughts go running to your open door, I sit beside you in your quiet room.

I mind the darkened sky, the weary rain, And long for cheerful glimpses of the sun... Then I remember! Through your window pane You cannot see the palest sunbeam run.

You who are lost in darkness set a seal Upon my lips... Now my complaints are less! And may my love, like morning sunbeams, steal Into your heart to bring you happiness! (Copyright, 1937)

THREE FORMS OF ARTHRITIS

OR "RHEUMATISM"

As plain Ol' Doc Brady I repeat, acute arthritis or 'rheumatism' other than infectious (caused by bacterial invasion of joint tissues) is inconceivable to my one-track mind, and there are only three specific types or forms of chronic arthritis or "rheumatism," namely, infectious, nutritional and traumatic.

Acute arthritis is otherwise known as acute infectious arthritis and rheumatic fever, is a serious illness in every instance because of the chance of involvement of the lining of the heart (endocarditis) and valvular damage, and therefore requires the physician's close attendance.

Chronic arthritis involving more than one joint is as likely to be infectious as it is nutritional. Chronic arthritis involving only one joint is more likely to be traumatic, that is, the result of injury or strain.

Chronic infectious arthritis involves several joints eventually, though in the first year or so the victim may complain of trouble in only one joint. Chronic nutritional arthritis involves many joints from the beginning and is always of gradual insidious onset and steadily progressive unless correctly diagnosed and checked by treatment before tissue atrophy and degeneration have done irreparable damage.

Even though the arthritis be clearly of the infectious type, there may be a nutritional factor as well. The diagnosis of the type of arthritis is a problem that demands careful consideration by the physician, in the individual case. All this is discussed in the Little Nile green book "The Ills Called Rheumatism" which sets you back a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your address. The source of the germs that invade the joint tissues is generally a septic focus or breeding place, such as in an infected sinus, tonsil, about the root of a tooth.

While a tonsil, sinus, gall-sac, prostate, appendix or a few serviceable teeth more or less may not be a life and death question, it is foolish to sacrifice such appendages on mere conjecture or suspicion. For instance, don't give up a useful tooth merely on X-ray evidence. Hang onto it until the dentist and the doctor positively assure you it is infected beyond hope of cure by any other means. Every tooth is worth a thousand dollars. Only an idiot ever sacrifices a tooth unnecessarily in any circumstance.

A septic focus may be "silent" that is, not causing any trouble in itself at the moment and the patient may be unaware of the presence of the wee abscess or area of infection, yet responsible for arthritis. When small "kernels" (enlarged lymph nodes or "glands") can be felt in the neighborhood of the suspected septic area, as under the border of the jaw or down the side of the neck, and especially when these nodes are tender now and again, it is fair to assume the septic focus is an active factor. However, radical removal is not the only rational treatment. As later talks will show, the problem is not so simple as that.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Physicians Only
How may I obtain a copy of "Annals of Internal Medicine" by Dr. John Lanshaw Dorsey? (G. W. A.)

nal published monthly at 133 S. 36th St., Philadelphia

Removing Adhesive Plaster

Please tell me what will dissolve or remove adhesive tape from the skin painlessly. (T. A.)

Answer—Ordinary kerosene (coal oil), of course, with care to keep away from fire or flame. Perhaps the safest and best agent for the purpose is a mixture of one-third naphtha and two-thirds carbon tetrachloride. This is non-explosive though it may burn. Its odor may be improved by adding a few drops of oil of sassafras. When using any such solvent or cleaner always have window or door open and keep away from fire, pilot light or striking matches.

Vitamin C

Ben Told it a baby more harm than good to give it orange juice squeezed and strained the night before. (Mrs. A. McF.) Answer—It does no harm. Fresh fruit juice of any kind loses part of its vitamin C strength on standing. To get the full effect of the vitamin it is always better to use the juice immediately after squeezing. For children over a year old and for adults it is better not to strain it.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Here are a few do's and don'ts in case you plan to visit New York in the near future. (Note: This is really supposed to be a letter to a pilgrim in Montana, who has requested this information, but I am sure he is willing to share it with you.)

If you have any particular shows in mind, wire for reservations now. Some of them are selling seats three months in advance. The expensive night clubs are not always the ones with cover charge. . . . Those with "minimum" tariffs can present you with some startling sums. . . . Too, most night club waiters are careless with their arithmetic, and so you are advised to consult the menus carefully before you order, and to check your bill just as carefully afterward.

Those who enjoy seeing celebrities in their native haunts might take a chance on dropping into the lobby of the Warwick. . . . Dean Cornwell is doing the new murals there and you never can tell when he will blow in.

Don't accept a taxi driver's advice on which clubs to visit. . . . The manager of your hotel can supply you with the best advice on such matters.

Rockefeller Center is a thrilling sight to include on your tour. . . . But, be careful how you cross the street at that particular corner. With the "I" pillars there and the tremendous attraction the sector carries, it has become one of the worst traffic problems in the city. Dining in famous restaurants or hanging around stage doors is the best way to encounter celebrities. . . . They usually leave the theater half an hour after the curtain goes down. . . .

Harlem no longer carries much appeal—indeed, most of its "lights" have departed for Broadway. . . . If you must go, however, observe extreme care. . . . Patronize no club or restaurant which isn't advertised in the newspapers. . . .

Chinatown, too, despite its aura of oriental mystery, is no longer important. There exists several streets and a dead-end of shops operated by Chinese, but the place is only a suggestion of its former self. . . . By all means see Manhattan at night from Brooklyn Bridge. . . . And if you have time, take a nickel ride on any of the Hudson river ferry boats at dusk, and see New York through the haze of mist and blue water.

A stroll up Fifth or Park avenue about noon is interesting, and the hotel lobbies in late afternoon are always fascinating. . . . You never know whom you will run into. If a cop orders you to "get along," or to show more care in crossing street corners, he means it. . . . But he is the most generous of fellows with information, and he will go out of his way to help any stranger in distress.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 4:15 to 6:15 p. m. and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

You may be asked this day to tell the truth about what you think of a certain person. Be careful what you say, for sometimes the truth hurts. Do not be misled by statements, because at times they are rashly made. Bear in mind, if a person is overly persistent in trying to exact a promise, it is also a good time to think twice before making it. Doing things on the spur of the moment will railroad many into a world of trouble this day. Painting word pictures must be carefully done, for if too much realism is put into them they may get you into disfavor. You may find a feather in your cap through some considerate action this day. Wear it with becoming modesty, if you are wise. Should you be informed that somebody "is the salt of the earth," it might be well to remember some of the Earth's salt needs a powerful amount of refining before it becomes pure. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, might be wise to recall that: "It is not every creature that deserves an answer."

If a woman and February 21 is your birthday, be careful that imaginary needs do not lead to your being very discontented. If you have undertaken to do something, and feel discouraged, realize: "It takes a long time to bring excellence to maturity." You should have a lot of good sense which is bound to be a marvelous asset. Means may soon be provided, in an unexpected way, for you to satisfy a desire you have had for a long time. Avoid seeing, through the eyes of some friend, the defects in another. Do your own looking, and you may discover that what your friend mistook for faults are virtues. Commercial life might have much to offer you. If you have the gift of writing, acting, singing or painting, make good use of it, for through your own efforts you may win laurels. Marriage should aid, rather than hinder your business, as well as social aspiration.

Children born on February 21, are usually very gifted. In their early teens, their mental attainments generally attract favorable attention. They frequently select a career that leads to their either becoming affluent or famous.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—If a canary suddenly should burst out with a raucous "Folks wants a lawyer," it would hardly be more startling than the tone of a recent speech by Secretary Wallace.

Of all the "bring them through alive" advocates of aid for farmers, Wallace has been most insistent upon the federal way as the best way. It was "federal can do this best" and "federal can do that best" was Wallace until old hand states-rights were not much surprised when one time he said even the state lines were out of kilter and ought to fit economically integrated areas rather than follow older lines.

But back to this lark: "In any attempt to create a better tenant farming system in the United States, the states themselves will have to take the most prominent part."

That was Secretary Wallace.

Two Reasons

There are two prominent factors contributing to the secretary's change of melody. First, he was speaking to the council of state governments meeting in Washington and he knows how to temper the wind to the shorn lamb. Second, only a month before the resettlement administration and responsibility for doing something about farm tenants had been precipitated into his lap. He, therefore, was eager to invite cooperation from the states, and equally eager to put some of the responsibility on them.

Wallace's suggestions marked a sharp change in direction in the resettlement program. Rexford G. Tugwell, while resettlement administrator, pressed for tenant ownership. Wallace says that is a good idea but not immediately feasible. He wants quicker results and proposes to give greater security to the tenants on the land they lease.

That, he said, would have several immediate good effects. It would cause the tenant to conserve the land he farms. It would improve his own ultimate condition and benefit the landlord. It would encourage the tenant to look to his place as a home over a long period of years.

His Proposal

Specifically, Wallace suggested that state laws be amended so tenants could not be removed from the land on less than one year's notice except for special cause, and so that they would be reimbursed for improvements.

He recognizes that some tenants are constitutionally unfit to own and operate land. Yet the number in that class, he insists, is less than the public generally believes. The resettlement administration, whatever its faults, has shown he said, that it is capable of doing the proper, decent food and some educational guidance" will make two real farmers where only one grew before.

Here and There Around World

YEAR'S HOMAGE TO RAT

Shanghai, China — (4)—The Year of the Rat has ended. It will be twelve years before China's rats enjoy the honor of having another year named for them. The Chinese believe that the rat is the most intelligent of all animals, and that it is the most generous of fellows with information, and he will go out of his way to help any stranger in distress.

As Shanghai is a seaport, the rat population is numerous and cosmopolitan health authorities have only freed the city from the burrowing pest in the last 12 years, and even now have to keep on the alert for it.

Coolies employed by the health department pay periodic visits to the rat-infested districts to lay traps and there are scores of privately owned exterminating companies. It is estimated more than 100,000 rats were killed in Shanghai last year.

This year only butchers born in the Year of the Cow have any worries, for in 1937 the cow takes the throne.

GATHER CIGARET BUTTS

Nanking, China — (4)—Buckets of half-smoked cigarettes are being collected in Nanking by the promoters of the New Life movement in a war against smoking.

Armed with pails, officers of the movement are roaming the streets asking smokers to throw away their cigarettes and to abstain from smoking in the future.

PLANES BY INSTALLMENTS

Ankara, Turkey—(4)—Reinforcements of the Turkish air force may cost every citizen of this country eight cents a month for at least five years. A bill calling for the tax is before the national assembly. The money would purchase about 200 more planes a year. The government recently has declared 1,000 planes to be the necessary minimum.

SISTER WILL BE RIVAL

Glasgow, Scotland — (4)—The sister ship to the Queen Mary, now on the stocks at John Brown's Clydebank yard, is to be the world's largest ship. Tonnage of the "Queen Elizabeth" is called, will approach 90,000. Modifications suggested by experience with the present Atlantic speed queen will be incorporated into the new ship.

If a man and February 21 is your natal day, you ought to have a great deal of character, an unlimited fund of wit as well as a vast amount of good humor. Radio work, journalism, play writing, painting or promoting may make you rich.

Garbo, Taylor are Starred in Camille

Picture Will be Part of Strong Twin Bill at Rio Theater

"Camille," with Greta Garbo and Robert Taylor as its sensational co-starring team, brings mutual distinction to Hollywood's two most glamorous stars.

The notable supporting cast of "Camille" includes Lionel Barrymore, Elizabeth Allan, Jessie Ralph, Henry Daniel, Lenore Ulric and Laura Hope Crews.

The Dumas love classic of "The Lady of the Camellias" provides a peculiar brilliant vehicle for the glamorous Garbo. She gives an unforgettable intensity to the most dramatic role of her brilliant career. Taylor, whose amazing success in a brief two years on the screen has made him an international figure, comes into his own as a dramatic actor of rare talent in the exacting role of Armand.

The story is too well remembered to require description, but the glory of Paris in the period of Du Maurier is recreated with magnificent artistry and the dramatic love of Camille and Armand is portrayed with all the power of the original.

The second feature is a rollicking whirlwind of mischief and excitement, with the irrepressible Jane Withers romping merrily through the laugh-provoking situations of "The Holy Terror."

In this latest and gayest fun-fest of her career, involving her in hilarious doings with the Navy, the young madcap is ably supported by Anthony Martin, Leah Ray, Joan Davis, El Brendel and Joe Lewis.

Rainbow on River' Is Full of Comedy, Pathos

Replete with pathos, comedy, drama and spectacle, "Rainbow on the River," new singing film starring young Bobby Bren, heads the twin bill at the Rio Theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Set in the reconstruction period following the Civil War, the story traces the early experiences of a young waif in New Orleans, where a devoted negro servant of his dead parents strives to bring up the lad in ignorance of his family name.

Against the colorful, rustic settings of the small southern village, and the spectacular cotton plantations and Mississippi levee scenes, young Bobby sings such delightful melodies as Stephen Foster's "Ring, Ring de Banjo," "Old Folks at Home" and the "Camptown Races"; Von Flotow's hymn from "Stradella"; and the traditional negro spiritual, "Waitin' for the Sun"; Franz Schubert's "Ave Maria"; "The Flower Song" by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, and the highly popular theme number, "Rainbow on the River."

The brilliant boy tenor is surrounded by such capable performers as May Robson, Charles Butterworth, Louise Beavers, Alan Mowbray, Benita Hume, Marilyn Knowlton, Henry O'Neill and the famous Hall Johnson Choir.

"She's Dangerous!" is the title of the exciting Universal picture which has been booked as the additional feature. The title refers to Tala Birell, who sets a trap for a gang that has stolen $500,000. When the net closes in, Tala herself is caught in the gang leader's trap.

The handsome Cesar Romero, who falls in love with Tala, his rival for her affections is Walter Pidgeon. Other players prominently cast include Warren Hymer and Walter Brennan.

Theater to Give Lady Patrons Sets of Dishes

The most gigantic giveaway in our history will commence at the Appleton Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday and running for eleven weeks. Every lady patron at the Appleton Theatre on either Tuesday or Wednesday, matinee or night, will receive absolutely free, the first two items of a complete set of "Vittorio" kitchenware, the salt and pepper shakers, in ivory color. No coupons, no contests, no drawing. Every lady patron, upon presentation of her admission ticket, receives the pair of shakers absolutely free.

The double feature program at the Appleton Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday is headed by "Laughing at Trouble." A woman newspaper editor in a small town, fair and forthright, whose joy in life is to help young lovers out of their troubles, she laughs away her own. "Laughing at Trouble" is a comedy more his, comes into her rightful place as the star. Pitting her brains and courage to save her piece's sweetheart, an innocent innocent, from the fury of a mob, and the electric chair, the picture is full of suspense. The second feature brings an old favorite back to us, Conrad Nagel, in the first of a new series of pictures, dealing with Uncle Sam's Border Patrol, "Yellow Cargo." Eleanor Hunt supplies adequate feminine interest.

Ranger Courage' Is Action-Packed Film

According to ardent addicts of boots and saddles' screen plays, "Ranger Courage," the new Columbia western, at the Elite Theatre, today and Sunday, is really a "Shore-enough rip-rail roarer."

This is just a non-tenderfoot way of saying that the picture, starring Bob Allen, is an interesting entertainment, stirring with action, rich in romance and altogether satisfying film fare.

Allen, as a hard-riding and somewhat deductive State Ranger, who solves the "mystery" of how Indians come to be healed with cowboy boots, shares honors with two capable troupers in Martha Tibbets, his talented young leading woman, and Robert Henry, the rough-riding little juvenile buckaroo.

In the strong supporting cast are Walter Miller, Bud Osborne, Bob

MILLAND PLAYS ROLE AS BULLDOG DRUMMOND

Ray Milland, the popular young leading man recently seen in "The Jungle Princess" and "The Big Broadcast of 1937" has a different and exciting role as Drummond in the latest of this well known series, "BULLDOG DRUMMOND ESCAPES." Sir Guy Standing, Heather Angel and Reginald Denny are in the cast as well, and we promise you an evening well worth your while. "BULLDOG DRUMMOND ESCAPES" will be seen at the Appleton Theatre starting next Thursday on the double feature program co-featured with "MAMA STEPS OUT" a Metro Goldwyn Mayer comedy special, with Guy Kibbee, Alice Brady and Betty Furness.

Not Many Black Bears to Be Found in Wisconsin

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Next to snake stories anecdotes pertaining to bears are probably the most popular when the conversation of a group turns to wild animal life. At one time black bears were very common in the state but because of the general although erroneous idea that they were savage and brutal animals they were ruthlessly slaughtered for many years until their numbers became very small.

When it was proven that they were shy and harmless, except in the case of a mother bear defending her young, they were given legal protection which extends the year around unless a short, open season on them is declared. In the wider parts of the state a few bears can still be found but there is scarcely a possibility of their becoming numerous again, even with protection.

Those of us who spent our childhoods in rural districts can relate many stories of encounters with bears, either our own or that of our parents. My own childhood was spent on a small farm on which there was not even a woodlot but there were several small woods and swamps near by. Bears were uncommon but on at least two occasions they were encountered by either of my parents right on the farm.

We Didn't See a Bear. They were never told of the encounters until later, usually after a report that a bear had been shot in the neighborhood and this, of course, being the very bear my parents had seen and now there was no danger of us children running into it. On several occasions we came home at twilight with wild tales of having seen a bear cross the back pasture or enter a cornfield. We were always told that what we saw was a "big, black dog."

Nevertheless, we never went about that pleasurable duty of "bringing home the cubs" alone and more than once the cubs came home at a gallop. It wasn't always a real or fancied bear that frightened us. Sometimes it was a skunk and that at least could not be designated a dog by our parents for we plainly saw the white streak.

February is the usual time when the baby bears are born. The mother, who has been denning up in some sheltered spot since November or early December, usually gives birth to two or three cubs, tiny creatures weighing only about half a pound. Perhaps it is fortunate for the mother that they are so small for she remains in hibernation several months after giving birth to the cubs and, of course, lives without food during the time.

Eat Grass and Berries. In April the bears emerge from their hibernating quarters. The males usually leave a week or two earlier than the females. They are thin and hungry and their search for food begins. They tear up succulent foots of plants and shrubs, turn over stones and fallen logs for grubs and other hibernating life or go down to a stream to catch fish.

In summer they live on many kinds of food. They are very fond of berries, especially the wild raspberries. They also eat a great deal of fruit, such as apples and pears. They are also very fond of fish, especially trout and salmon.

'Gay Desperado' In New Romance

Nino Martini Is Singing Star in Gay and Colorful Story

Something decidedly different in pictures with music comes to the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. Bargain days when Pickford-Lasky's "The Gay Desperado," will be shown there, with Nino Martini, the great singing star of radio, opera and films in the title role, and Ida Lupino and Leo Carrillo in supporting parts.

A gay, colorful romance laid below the Rio Grande, this second offering of the newly formed Mary Pickford-Jesse L. Lasky producing company completely discards the usual background plot for pictures featuring famous songbirds and presents a thrill-packed, action-filled, fast-moving film story.

The handsome Martini is said to give a great performance as the gay, swashbuckling Chivo, whose glorious voice causes him to be kidnapped by a Mexican bandit chieftain (Carrillo), who adopts American gangster methods, but is really a sentimental, music-loving fellow at heart.

Hollywood News And Gossip

By Robin Coon

Hollywood — Film factory: This will be hard to take, but the screen's golden-haired cutie is slowly changing to a raven-haired lass.

On the "Wee Willie Winkie" set she goes into a scene with C. Aubrey Smith, innocently unaware that in two or three more years her crown of curls will have lost its glitter. But when the time comes, Shirley Temple will be past caring — at least, the producers probably won't care.

Standing by on the set, observing hawk-like for any crumb of news that might fall from the gilded area of the diminutive Golden Presence, I observe this trick of nature in its earlier stages. Unmistakably, there at the roots of the curls is a suggestion of incipient brunette. And Mrs. Temple, sitting by as always, confirms the suspicion. Once she herself had golden curls. She turned brunette when she was 10.

They seem to be having trouble with the scene. C. Aubrey, seated with Shirley standing before him in nightgown and holding a lighted candle, is "blowing up" on his lines, a failing Shirley never displays. But Shirley seems to enjoy this. Each time she can blow out the candle.

Between "takes," Mrs. Temple and Eddie O'Farna, Director John Ford's brother and assistant, discuss tomorrow's location trip.

"I'll drive in our car," she says firmly. "But I think the studio ought to buy the gasoline!" This, I take it, is in jest. When Mrs. Temple talks business, she does not deal in trivialities like buttons, pin-money or gasoline. . . .

"Kid Galahad" is operating today in a canvas-covered arena on the back lot. Under the canvas, the prize ring where Wayne Morris is to do battle. They are taking "action shots" of the crowd turning the camera first in one direction and then in another, and shifting the extra's positions each time, they get a different crowd in each section.

While Bette Davis knits on the sidelines, Humphrey Bogart and Joe Cunningham (playing a reporter) stroll around, and Edward G. Robinson suns himself outside. Assistant Director Jack Sullivan booming urges the crowd to frenzy. Sullivan, like a cheerleader, gets the gang to "give" and "give it does."

Some crowds at movie prize-fights, football games and such show the enthusiasm of wilted lettuce, but this one acts as if it had money on the winning underdog.

DIONNE QUINTS PLAY IN 'REUNION'

The central figure in the reunion of the 3,000 grown-up "babies" he brought into the world is the Country Doctor, Jean Hersholt, featured in "Reunion," Twentieth Century-Fox picture coming to the Elite Theatre for 3 days starting next Wednesday. Starring the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets, the cast also includes Rochelle Hudson, Helen Vinson, Slim Summerville, Robert Kent, Dorothy Peterson and John Qualen.

Badger State 12th in Age Pension Pleas

Chicago — (P)—Wisconsin ranked twelfth among states in the nation in the number of applications for participation in the federal old age benefits program of the social security act, H. E. McCarthy, regional director of the social security board, said Thursday.

The figures were based on a computation of applications for account numbers Jan. 15, which showed 23-647,461 applications had been filed, he said. Wisconsin had registered 499,507.

McCarthy also released figures issued by the post office department giving an estimate of the number of employe applications filed in 75 of the largest cities Milwaukee was thirteenth with 284,328 and Madison, Wis., seventy-fourth with 17,400.

The reason, aside from Sullivan's prowess, is not hard to find. The fight fans are handicapped, and include such tried camera veterans as Stuart Holmes, once the screen's leading villain, now doing yeoman duty in bits.

'GREEN LIGHT' COMING TO RIO THEATER

Anita Louise, Errol Flynn, and Margaret Lindsay have the leading roles in "Green Light," which starts a 4-day engagement at the Rio theatre today. It is based on the novel of the same name by Lloyd C. Douglas, author of "Magnificent Obsession," and if advance reports are any indication, "The Green Light" is destined to break box office records made by his previous hit.

The second feature on the twin bill brings a new comedy team to the screen. Victor Moore and Helen Broderick, who co-star in "We're on the Jury."

Bulldog Drummond Coming to Screen in Latest Film

"Bulldog Drummond," one of the most popular detectives of fiction, and the screen, has only eight hours in which to solve a series of crimes which grip London in his latest screen adventure, "Bulldog Drummond Escapes," which plays at the Appleton Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The role of the dashing young sleuth and soldier-of-fortune is handled by Ray Milland, the handsome young Englishman who soared to popularity in "The Big Broadcast of 1937." He is supported by Sir Guy Standing, as Inspector Nielson, of Scotland Yard, his rival in the crime ferreting business; Reginald Denny as "Algy," his pal and assistant; Heather Angel as the girl in the case, and Porter Hall as the villain, of course.

The latest Drummond adventure begins shortly after his arrival in London, by plane. Landing in deep fog at Croydon Field, he soon finds himself confronted with the most baffling crime of his career. His car is stolen from him by a beautiful woman he stops to investigate a scream on the moor. The first thing he must find out in the identity of the mysterious beauty. When he does he finds himself with two murders, a kidnapping and a counterfeit ring to contend with. And as usual, Inspector Nielson in no help.

Small-Town America and the "savior fare" of Paris mingle in comical conflict in "Mama Steps Out," a satire on wealthy tourists abroad which brings Guy Kibbee and Alice Brady to the screen as the newest comedy team.

This second feature is a fast-moving story of a wealthy manufacturer, a typical Babbitt, who takes his flighty wife and serious laughter to France, where Mama achieves ideas of "culture" and fills the villa with eccentric personages including an unconventional novelist painter and composer, while daughter, instead of heeding Mama's urge to marry a cultured foreigner, elopes with an American crooner.

Petroleum Association Convention Next Week

Milwaukee — (P)—The Wisconsin Petroleum association will hold its annual convention and equipment show here next Tuesday through Thursday. Federal and state gasoline tax legislation will be high-light topics of discussion.

Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, Frank Moore, sales promotion manager of the Continental Oil Co., C. J. Jackson, president of the Wisconsin Retail Gasoline Dealers and Service association, Warren C. Platt, editor of the National Petroleum News, Cleveland, and Arthur Fugh of the state treasury department are listed among the speakers.

Walter Wingrove of Sheboygan is president of the association.

The mid-south area, of which Memphis, Tenn. is the hub, is said to produce 36 per cent of the nation's cotton crop.

Symphony of College Will Give Concert

THE LAWRENCE college symphony orchestra, conducted by Dr. Percy Fullinwider, professor of violin, will give its first concert of the season Thursday evening at Memorial chapel. The orchestra, which Dr. Fullinwider organized, has given a concert in Appleton every year since 1911.

The musicians this year number 43, a substantial growth over the original 14 who played with Dr. Fullinwider in 1911. The orchestra was augmented in 1928 by the music students of the public school classes conducted at the conservatory by Ernest C. Moore, associate professor of public school music.

The range of ages in the orchestra is of interest, inasmuch as its members are drawn from among the faculty heads at the college, as well as from public school students attending Appleton high school. All members are united, however, in their interest in music, and Dr. Fullinwider depends as much upon his younger teen-age players as upon his veterans.

This year's program is well balanced, offering familiar examples of classical orchestra music as well as several modern American numbers demonstrating the breadth of subject-matter and treatment in current composing.

Last year the orchestra pleased its audiences with creditable performances including such difficult symphonic works as the first movement of the Cesar Franck D Minor symphony. This year Dr. Fullinwider is confident of an enthusiastic reception for the modern American numbers on the program.

Parties

Dr. Darling Tells Club About Visit in Vienna

EXPERIENCES while a student in Vienna were told by Dr. Stephen F. Darling, associate professor of chemistry at Lawrence college, at a meeting of the German-American club last night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. John, 206 N. Union street. Dr. Darling told of seeing duels among the students on several occasions. He gave a brief history of Vienna also. Vienna is a city of music, said the speaker, adding that one can hear good music at any time of the day for a very reasonable sum. He spoke of one building which has several halls in which concerts are given at the same time, making it difficult for one to choose which he should hear. Dr. Darling told of attending a ball similar to the Beaux Arts ball in Paris at which he met a man whom he later realized was Franz Drda, when the composer was called upon to play his composition, "Souvenir."

During the social hour following the talk, apple strudel, a typical Viennese dish, was served as well as poppy seed pie, a popular delicacy in Europe. Thirty members were present.

Plan Rehearing In Badger Case

Dispute Concerns Rates on Lumber Shipped From West Coast

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Wisconsin manufacturers of building woodwork, represented by the Oshkosh Traffic association, are involved in a case before the Interstate Commerce commission concerning rates on lumber shipped from the west coast to mills in the middle west, scheduled for rehearing on March 5, in Takoma, Mass.

The Oshkosh Traffic association representing manufacturers in Oshkosh, Neenah, Merrill and Medford, has been acting as intervenor since the beginning of the case in an effort to maintain a lowered rate schedule on lumber shipped from origin plants in the far west.

The case opened a year ago when the commission ordered suspension of operation of the rate schedule filed by mid-west carriers. The commission declared that an investigation would be made to determine whether or not the proposed rate schedule would have an injurious effect on the public interest.

The Oshkosh Traffic Association intervened on behalf of mid-west manufacturers, asking that the suspension be denied. In its answer to the question, the association declared that the proposed rates were necessary in view of the unfair competition with west coast manufacturers who had the advantage of cheaper shipping.

Ellen McAdoo De Onate Files Suit for Divorce

Los Angeles — (P)—Ellen McAdoo De Onate, wife of the late Senator William Gibbs McAdoo today after suddenly filing suit for divorce from the debonair film actor she married under turbulent circumstances in 1934.

They separated Thursday. The brief divorce complaint charged non-support and asked custody of their son, Richard, 14 years old. "I cannot understand it," said Rafael De Onate, known to the screen as Ralph Novarro. He married the granddaughter of the late President Wilson when he was 38 and she 19. But Mrs. De Onate explained, "Things simply came to the point where my son and I were not getting proper financial support and I thought it best to take this way out of the situation. I hold no ill feeling against Rafael, in fact I wish him the best of luck."

NUTRITIA MILK CONTEST!

Why I Like Nutritia Milk Better

I've heard of many healthful hints! Here's one I found myself! "Keep a stock of Nutritia Milk Upon the ice box shelf!" I'm sure I owe my preference To reasons numbering three! They are health, wealth and happiness! Great joys for you and me! Why do I call one reason health? It has qualities unsurpassed! Hence, it makes brawn for every lad! Pink cheeks for every lass! Now reason number two is wealth! And why do I call it such? Because I save in actual cash. I appreciate that much! Now both these reasons grouped in one Make reason number three. Happiness — a joyous word! Take it home with you from me. A fact scientifically proven — NUTRITIA MILK IS BEST! How do we know that this is true? It is the best by test! So after all is said and done, Nutritia spells health plus wealth! It balances our diet. Health is our greatest wealth. I hope each person "listenin' in" Tries Nutritia milk today! You'll say it's a worthwhile tip. And you're glad it came your way. I hope you judges will all agree That this simple poem shall merit me The thrill of winning a prize, and then I'll boost NUTRITIA till I'm three score and ten!

Okay Bill Which Would Give Cities More Supervisors

Vote on Measure Is 5 to 3; To be Before Legislature Next Week

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Passage of the Catlin bill, intended to give Appleton, Green Bay, and other Wisconsin cities representation on their county boards on the basis of population rather than on the number of wards, as at present, was recommended by the assembly committee on municipalities after a public hearing Thursday afternoon by a 5 to 3 vote.

The committee heard Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Jr., Appleton, author of the bill, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Appleton, and Alderman Stanley Peterson, Manitowish, representing the common council of that city, which has gone on record favoring passage of the bill. No one appeared against the measure.

The bill, if passed, according to Catlin, would allow Appleton to increase its county board supervisors to 16, compared to the 8 Appleton representatives on the present board, while Green Bay would be allowed to increase its representation on the Brown county board from 21 to 37. Under the regular procedure, the bill will be reported out next Tuesday, and will be placed on next Thursday's assembly calendar for consideration.

Mrs. Mead Allen was called to Black Creek Thursday by the illness of her mother, Mrs. John Stephani.

H. C. Crasen is a patient at the St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton where he submitted to an operation for appendicitis the first of the week.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

The county pension committee will meet at the courthouse next Wednesday. Hearings will be conducted on several applications for old age assistance.

Residents, is represented by eight supervisors. "Almost all the cities of the state favor this bill," said Peterson.

When Peterson suggested that passage of the bill with its attendant increase in cities' power on county boards, would remedy the variations in city and rural real estate assessments, citing that in one of the towns of his county a tavern-keeper was the local assessor, Assemblyman Martin Frankowski, a member of the committee, and a tavernkeeper in private life, took offense. Frankowski suggested that a tavernkeeper is as capable as an assessor as anyone else.

See Difference

Further discussion on the bill brought out a contention that towns and villages in Wisconsin are represented on county boards at the rate of one supervisor per 100 population, while cities, in general, have but one supervisor to every 4000 to 5000 residents.

Also attending the hearing was Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, while Mayor Willard M. Sonnenberg, in a letter to the committee, asked to be recorded in favor of the Catlin bill.

Ask Conference Of Farm Leaders From Middle West

Handrich Says State Regulations on Cheesemaking Hits Badgers

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison — Competition of cheese makers in neighboring middlewestern states who are using skim milk for the manufacture of cheese, to the detriment of Wisconsin cheese makers who are forbidden under state law to remove butterfat from the milk used in the manufacture of certain kinds of cheese has led Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich (P), Menasha, to prepare a resolution asking for a conference of state agricultural department heads of the middlewest.

Handrich will introduce his resolution next week, he said yesterday. He explained that at present Wisconsin cheese sizes, wrappings, etc., and are placing their poorer quality cheese on the markets as Wisconsin cheese, which he deems unfair competition. Cheese factories in his county are suffering under this competition, he declared, and since the legislature is powerless to take any action in interstate commerce, a resolution asking for a conference of state representatives of the middlewest is the only course open.

Work Out Agreement

This conference, he intimated, would seek to work out a friendly agreement in the regulation of cheese quality. At present an un-informed public is buying poor quality skim milk cheese as a high standard Wisconsin product, he maintains.

Handrich has also introduced a bill which would add the Four Wheel Drive company of Clintonville and other manufacturers of four wheel drive trucks in the state. Present statutes provide a limitation on the total gross load of such trucks, said Handrich, which maximum is not large enough for convenient loadings. His bill would allow 28,000 pounds in gross weight, or an increase of 4,000 pounds, but would apply specifically to four wheel drive machines.

Building Permits

Two building permits were issued yesterday by the building inspection department. They were granted to August Reinke, 1027 W. Packard street, garage, $100, and H. B. Leith, 1114 N. Appleton street, addition to residence, $200.

Reports from Europe have told the danger of a general war but there is at least some hope that the air clouds will pass. One thing on the side of peace is the memory of the 18 years and three months ago, people do not want the same suffering to come again.

If the world, or at least most of the world, can stay at peace for the next half-century, we shall see wonders and joys and work and learning.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN
BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Count Vronski invites several friends to a late party at Anne Phelps' studio—they are rumored engaged. First to arrive are Anne, Vronski, Karsanokoff, the stunning dancer, and Bigelow, the young American from Paris. Karsanokoff has shown unusual interest in Vronski, who is trying to force Anne to marry him. A shot occurs and Bigelow finds Anne and Karsanokoff staring at Vronski's corpse. Anne's gun lies there. They decide not to call the police and quickly hide the body in a cupboard before the guests arrive.

Chapter 10
"We're all guilty, now," Bigelow drew out his case and offered Anne a cigarette—took one himself and lighted them. "Steady on," he said quietly. "They don't know and they won't know."

"But—was it wise to take this way? What are we going to do when they go? Can we trust Madame Karsanokoff?"

"I think so," answered Bigelow. "But—we know so little about her."

"Still—she's in this with us. We're all guilty, now—accessories if nothing more."

"Yes."

Karsanokoff came to the door. "This isn't wise," she said gravely. "Whispering in corners looks like conspiracies. And we don't want to arouse anyone's suspicions—in any way."

"Right," said Bigelow. Karsanokoff smilingly slipped her arm through Anne's and they left him.

He picked up the telephone receiver and called Austrelitz's number. He heard the bell ring at the other end and at first thought that Austrelitz was out—but eventually his voice answered, "Yes—?"

"Bigelow, here. What are you doing?"

"I've been in bed for several hours," answered the doctor. "It must be after two o'clock. What is it? Is anything wrong?"

"Yes, that's why I called you."

There was a pause. "Am I to understand that you cannot speak frankly from where you are?" asked the doctor, taking his cue promptly.

"Exactly."

"What do you want me to do, then? Come to you or wait up for you here?"

"Come to a party," answered Bigelow. "It's at Anne Phelps' studio. I'll give you the address if you've got a pencil handy."

"Just a moment. You're not drunk, are you?" asked Austrelitz.

"No, I wish I were."

"Very well. Give me the address."

Bigelow gave it to him.

"Shall I bring my emergency kit?" asked Austrelitz.

"No, it's too late for that," said Bigelow.

"Oh?" Austrelitz was evidently thinking that over, gravely. "But you might come in your own car," said Bigelow. "You drive yourself, don't you?"

"Sometimes. I will tonight, in any case. Be there as quickly as I can make it," he promised.

"Good!" cried Bigelow and hung up.

The Cupboard Door
In the studio, more guests had arrived. The piano was going gaily under Buddy Burton's deft fingers. A red-haired girl in a green frock sat on the edge of the piano, singing, but only a few grouped around her were listening to her song. The rest were chattering at the work table where the food was laid out, or talking in corners. Some had strayed down the kitchen and were collected there.

As Bigelow stood looking about him, a heavy-set man tried the cupboard door. For an instant, Bigelow held his breath; then he realized the man was a stranger in the studio, too, and had made a mistake. Chet Harrison seized his arms and ushered him away.

In the loud clamor that filled the rooms, Mirabelle Barney hailed Bigelow. "Anne tells me you've just arrived from Paris," she cried. "Did you ever—I go over every summer. Haven't missed a year since I don't know when! Paris is my second home. And Biarritz! Do you know Biarritz?"

"Yes, very well," answered Bigelow.

"Well, did you ever—I've had a cabana there for six years. I just adore the casino. It's such fun to win money, isn't it? Do you know the Talleys?"

"... somewhere near Washington Square?" boomed a deep voice back of Bigelow.

"... and I said," cried a treble voice, "You expect a good deal for your orchids, don't you?"

A Call For Karsanokoff
Bigelow wandered on. The red-haired girl had stopped singing for the moment but she was still perched on top of the piano talking to a little group of men. Burton, behind her, was playing mechanically and talking to a tall thin girl who sat on the bench beside him. Karsanokoff was curled up on the couch that had almost daunted Mrs. Kane and seemed to be absorbed in the crowd around her. Near the fireplace, Anne stood talking to a rather dignified looking woman in black. She had gray hair—bobbed—and a friendly, crinkly face.

"May I present Mr. Bigelow?" the Baroness Dormstatt, said Anne. "Isn't it like Anton to give a party and not turn up himself?" said the Baroness, smiling.

"I've only just met Count Vronski," said Bigelow. "I don't know him at all, really."

"Ah," said the Baroness. "Such a nice noisy party, too. Just the kind he likes. It is too bad he must miss it. What do you suppose could have happened to him?"

"Perhaps this will be some word from him," said Bigelow casually as the telephone rang. Chet Harrison answered the call as he happened to be nearest the phone.

"It's for you, Madame Karsanokoff," he said in an instant.

"For me?" cried Karsanokoff in astonishment. She rose and moved toward the phone.

"Better take it in the bedroom," said Anne. "There's an extension there."

"No, this will do very well," said Karsanokoff as she picked up the receiver. Everyone was politely still. "Hello," called Karsanokoff. Bigelow glanced at Anne, frowning. All the color had drained from her face leaving it ghastly. She was staring incredulously at Karsanokoff. Bigelow quietly laid a steady hand on her arm.

Mother and Child Die
As Apartment Burns
Chicago—A mother and child perished Friday in a fire which swept through a four-story south side apartment building. More than 30 occupants of the building, many carrying blanket-wrapped babies, fled to safety before flames cut off escape. Firemen estimated at least 20 others were carried down ladders from upper floors.

The victims, trapped in their fourth floor apartment, were identified by neighbors as Mrs. Wayne Short, 21, and her daughter, Mary. 2. Firemen said they believed the woman died in the flames as she attempted to crawl through the inferno, carrying her child.

Menasha Man Is Sent to Prison For 1 to 3 Years

Admits Breaking and Entering Mill Supply Company

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—Reversing his plea to guilty on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time, into the Menasha Mill Supply company, on Feb. 1, Edward Duval, 25, of Menasha, today was sentenced to 1 to 3 years in state prison at Waupun, by Municipal Judge Henry Hughes.

Attorney E. W. Forkin, Menasha, represented Duval.

Throwing himself on the mercy of the court and asking probation to enable him to support his wife and child, Duval was confronted by District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusson with a criminal record extending back through 1930.

This record included several arrests and convictions on statutory charges resulting in probation, an arrest for disorderly conduct in Menasha in 1930, and sentenced to state reformatory when convicted of auto theft in Milwaukee in 1930. In sentencing Duval, Judge Hughes pointed out he would be permitted parole in 1½ years, conditioned on good behavior. The sentence states that one day each year must be spent in solitary confinement.

City Official To Attend Meet

Hoffmann to Advise Lions Bowling Tourney

Neenah—Allan Hoffmann, a member of the Menasha Lions club left Friday for Milwaukee on a tour of that section of Wisconsin to promote the Wisconsin State Lions tournament. He will attend Lions club meetings throughout the territory and accept applications of teams which wish to enter the tourney which will be held at the Hendy alleys, Menasha, from March 13 to April 15.

ISSUE PAPERS

Neenah—Nomination papers have been issued on behalf of Gustave Kalbfais, Jr., 335 E. Wisconsin avenue, by Harry S. Zemlock, city clerk, for reelection to the county board in the spring election. No primary will be held in Neenah and the general election is scheduled for April 6.

DEPUTIES DODGED THESE IN STRIKE

Two of the 125 policemen and sheriff's deputies who engaged in a spectacular but futile fight to rout 82 sit-down strikers in two North Chicago, Ill., plants of the Farnell Metallurgical corporation, are shown later examining "ammunition" hurled at them by the strikers. The collection includes pulley wheels, pipe and sundry other pieces of hardware. (Associated Press Photo)

City Probably Won't Have Team In State League

Lack of Grandstand at Park Given as Reason by Weisgerber

Menasha—Because of the lack of a grandstand at the Menasha baseball park, it is doubtful if Menasha will enter a baseball team in the Northern State league this year, George Weisgerber, president of last year's team, said today.

The building of a new grandstand at the park has been set up by the city council as a WPA project but as yet has not been returned to city officials. In the event construction is started on the proposed grandstand upon the return of WPA approval, it would take about three months to complete the structure which would be too late for participation in state league ball which usually is started in the early part of May, Mr. Weisgerber said.

There has been some talk around the valley of everyday baseball and an early meeting of officials was held recently at Sheboygan. The next session will be held Feb. 28 at the Conway hotel, Appleton. Mr. Weisgerber said that he may attend the meeting to discuss the possibilities of Menasha's entry into the league this season.

Grant Woman Divorce In Court at Oshkosh

Menasha—Geneva Terrian, 29 Menasha, was granted a divorce by default from Ray Terrian, 30, Thursday afternoon in county court of Judge D. E. McDonald. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

Married March 9 1926 at Menasha, the couple have been separated since December, 1936.

The plaintiff was awarded the custody of their four children and the equity in their home at 70 Fox street. Judge McDonald ordered the defendant to pay $25 a month for the support of the children.

Menasha Personals

Menasha—Miss Vivian Halvorsen is spending the weekend with Mrs. John Hart at Lions' Hotel, Chicago.

Mrs. John Jurek, 220 E. Main street, has been admitted for treatment at Theda Clark Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Andrew Witcofske, 562 Plank road, underwent a major operation at Theda Clark Memorial hospital this morning.

15 New History Volumes At the Menasha Library

Menasha—"The Pageant of America, a series of 15 volumes on the history of America, has been added to the collection of books at the Elsie D. Smith library, according to Miss Daisy Trilling, librarian.

Library Thanked For Cooperating In School Problem

Menasha—A letter of appreciation from F. B. Younger, superintendent of Menasha schools, for cooperation received from the library board and staff in connection with the temporary school situation here was received yesterday at the Elsie D. Smith library.

The library staff has had many additional duties to perform since the building has been used as a study hall by the dispossessed Menasha High school students.

The letter follows: "We have just completed the first semester of the school year under very trying conditions. It seems very fitting to express our appreciation for the splendid assistance and cooperation given by the library board and the library staff. I cannot speak too highly of the helpful spirit shown by the members of the staff during this emergency. It is this spirit that seems to permeate the staff, the faculty, our pupils and all who have anything to do with serving the Menasha boys and girls, that has made these temporary school arrangements work out so well."

St. Mary Seconds Defeat St. Peter

Bee Squad Takes 22 to 14 Victory From Oshkosh Bee Team

Menasha—St. Mary Bee squad cagers registered a 22 and 14 victory over the St. Peter Bees of Oshkosh last night in a preliminary battle preceding the St. Mary-St. Peter high school game.

The Oshkosh high team was well divided with Schmidt, Graff, Romneek, and Grode connecting on two field goals each and Sensenbrenner and Howe getting one apiece. Romneek added a gift loss to become high scorer with three points.

Retelle collected seven St. Peter points on two baskets and three charity tosses to lead his mates in scoring. The Menashians led all the way and were never threatened at any time.

Senator Complains Of Legislative Delay

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 17—Senator Nat Taylor of Strong City thinks there is too much legislative delay.

He arose the other day in the state senate and demanded of Al Nichols, president pro tempore: "Where is my resolution to make the red bud the official tree of Oklahoma?" I introduced it several days ago."

Nichols consulted the journal clerk and reported:

"It's in the agricultural committee of which you are chairman."

When fellow senators quizzed, Taylor called a committee meeting.

Cage Game Postponed

Menasha—Because of a Washington birthday program at St. John school yesterday, the Catholic boys conference basketball game between St. John cagers and the St. Patrick Shamrocks was postponed, according to the St. John coach. The game will be played Tuesday afternoon at St. John gymnasium.

Youth Is Accused of Slaying in Apartment

Kansas City—(P)—Two officers rushed to St. Louis today a warrant charging Edwin "Tuffy" Hucksline, 21, with the "symphony in red" apartment slaying of Gayland Linhart, 33, here Monday night.

Police Director Otto P. Higgins said Hucksline had been named as the man who shot Linhart after attempting to extort money from him under threat to expose Linhart's alleged unnatural relations with a male youth.

Hucksline denied any connection with the slaying when arrested at St. Louis last night while leaving an automobile plant where his twin brother, Edward, obtained him a job. Kansas City police at first erroneously announced Edward as the man sought.

At St. Louis, Detective Lieutenant Leonard Murphy said Edward was in no way involved and was not held.

Scientist Views Plant Cells as 'Living Batteries'

Study of Electric Currents Of Water Growth Reported

Cells of plants and animals are living electric batteries, declared Professor E. J. Lund of the University of Texas at a recent scientific meeting in Atlantic City as reported by Science Service. Small but measurable currents are constantly flowing through them, always in definitely determined directions. In the electrician's and physicist's term, cells have polarity.

In recent experiments, Professor Lund worked with two species of water plants, Nitella and Pithophora, because their single cells are comparatively enormous and so easier to handle than the microscopic cells of most plants. On these cells he found that "the distribution of the electric potentials on the cell surface is also polar, such that the apical end of the growing cell normally has the highest electric potential on its surface. This difference in electric potential is maintained and results in a continuous flow of electric current through the medium and the cell during life."

May be Arranged

It has also been demonstrated that such electrically polar cells may be arranged in the form of batteries of cells in series and parallel. This was first proved in the onion root and more recently in Pithophora, a simple green plant consisting of a row of polar cells.

Professor Lund has also found, in another series of experiments, that the electric currents between two points on the surface of a cell or a polar organ such as a root tip, are under certain conditions constant, but often appear in irregular rhythms, corresponding to changes in electro-chemical processes in the cells. Visible light (red and blue) increases the electric polarity of cells in the green plant Chara. This is linked with the mechanism of food manufacture, or photo-synthesis.

A disturbance which is now central over northern Texas has been attended by general precipitation during the last 24 hours over all the central and southern states, and over the southern plains and central Rocky mountains, and it is said, were chased from coveted Aravaca heights, bringing a concentration of General Franco's troops there to stop the new offensive.

The maneuver was planned to weaken pressure on Madrid from the Jarama river front.

Government armies were reported to have bombed a truck-train carrying soldiers to Leganes as the insurgents shifted their position. Heavy insurgent concentrations, however, were evident in both the northwest and southeast fronts.

Strong government positions were reported won between Pozoblanco and Arjonilla near Andalus, Jaen province, south central Spain.

Salamanca reports, however, said insurgents had captured 500 government militia in cleanup operations in Granada and Malaga provinces.

Guide Youth to Prevent Crimes, Scheller Urges

Judge Says Reform of Juvenile Delinquents Will Help Solve Problem

Clintonville—"The Youth of the Twentieth Century" was the subject by Judge A. M. Scheller of the Waupaca county court for his address to the Parent-Teacher association at the high school Wednesday evening. The occasion also marked the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which has Child Welfare as its main objective.

"The accusation has often been made that we of the United States," said Judge Scheller, "and I sometimes wonder if that is not true. A few years ago when flag-pole sitting was popular and new endurance records were being established day by day, the newspapers carried the stories in bold type, while the more important matters were not given much attention. The true value of our nation lies in its youth, the men and women of tomorrow, who will assume the responsibilities of the government in the future. Their value can not be measured in dollars, yet how little attention is paid to them."

Most people are shocked when they read of crimes committed by young people, but do not feel any responsibility toward the growing boys and girls of the community who need guidance, he maintained.

The boys want heroes and very often their hero is their dad or some friend whom they try to imitate. The speaker felt that it is up to each of us to set a good example for young people to follow.

Child welfare may be divided into three heads: first, dependent or neglected children; second, crippled children; and third, delinquents. The speaker emphasized the latter, subdividing which he has become familiar through his work in the county court. He cited several cases where young people were involved in small crimes, and most instances the fault was directly traceable to the home where it was found that proper guidance was lacking.

Suggests Remedy

According to statistics, he stated, 60 per cent of the crimes in this country are committed by young people between the ages of 15 and 25. "We are putting the cart before the horse," said Judge Scheller. "When we try to get the country of gangsters. While 20 notorious criminals are hunted down by the department of justice, 200,000 more are developing without hindrance among the youth of the nation. We must reverse the procedure and start getting rid of the gangsters by reforming the juvenile delinquents. In most cases the hard or tough exterior can easily be scratched and by appealing to the better nature of the youth, he can be guided in the right direction. Men and women of the community, who work for the good of young people are doing a very great service."

While his talk was confined chiefly to delinquent boys, the speaker also cited cases of delinquency among girls.

"The three major influences on the life of young boys and girls are the home, the school, and the church," said Judge Scheller, "and in most cases which come up for trial it is found that one of these is missing."

The address was preceded by a group of selections by the high school boys' glee club, directed by Miss Edith Gray, with Miss Betty Stubbins as pianist. It was announced by Clarence Zachow, president of the P. T. A., that a one-act play will be presented at the March meeting of the organization. The social committee appointed for that evening includes Mesdames Howard Bovee, George Spiegel, Earl Smith, George McCauley, Milford Etheridge, William Stichman and J. R. Shannon.

Twenty guests were entertained at a bridge-luncheon Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Donald Russell and Mrs. H. V. Larson at the latter's home. Those who received prizes were Mesdames A. C. Haase, Elmer Lang, R. E. Greb, W. L. Gould and A. L. Merrill.

A program of semi-classical songs will be featured Sunday by WTAQ of Green Bay when Mr. and Mrs. Walton R. Johnson and Abner Fredenberg of Clintonville broadcast from 4 o'clock to 4:15.

Members of the old FWD quartet, Messrs. Johnson and Fredenberg have lately presented duet numbers at community events. The two men have continued their singing as a duo. Mrs. Johnson is their piano accompanist.

Nearly 100 Present at Marion Church Dinner

Marion—Nearly one hundred persons gathered at the Methodist church parlors Wednesday evening for a community dinner after which a program was given by James and Thomas Rogers played a duet on their horns, a mellophone and a baritone. Jean Byers and Fern Steff sang a duet and Mrs. Lionel Fox also entertained with a vocal selection. The Rev. Mr. Wieser directed several contests. A radio had been installed and at 8:30 the audience listened to a farewell address by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, a missionary from India who is returning to that country. More than 10,000 Methodist churches in the United States held a party of this kind in honor of the missionary.

Henry Bowers, Jr. was host to the skat club at his home Wednesday evening. After playing 60 hands and counting scores, prizes were awarded to Herman Spiegel, Forrest Ottomark and Henry Bowers, Jr. The club will meet at the Claude Ferry home next Thursday evening.

At a business meeting of the Christian Mothers Society of St. Mary's Catholic church, Mrs. F. M. Mulvaney was reelected president. Mrs. Regina Daley, secretary, and Mrs. George Hofman, treasurer. It was decided to offer a money making program on St. Patrick's day. The following committee was appointed to make plans: Mrs. H. G. Meyer, Mrs. H. A. Spiegel, Mrs. Walter Maes and Mrs. Mulvaney.

New London Future Farmers Win Encounter

New London—New London Future Farmers basketball team trimmed Manawa 24 to 12 in a league game at Manawa after school yesterday. They led 5 to 4, 11 to 4 and 17 to 9 at the quarters. Schmidt took starring honors with three field goals.

Eight New Members are Initiated in School Club

New London—Eight new members were initiated into the Washington High Home Makers club at a candlelight service at the high school Thursday evening. The club now numbers 58 girls from the home economics classes conducted by Miss Gertrude Hoffman.

The girls initiated were Ora and Norma Oleson, Helen Hill, Cordell Myers, Rosemary Kircher, Eloise Blinn, Connie LeBeau, and Shirley Fonstad.

After the ceremonies the girls discussed the influence of European cookery on American food costumes and Marion Hoffman spoke on the Hungarian, Polish, Chinese and Mexican costumes. Jane Huebner on the German, and Joyce Burnmeister on the French influence. Miss Alice Howard, faculty member, told of foreign food costumes as she observed them on a recent visit to Europe. Loraine Pribernow talked on the modern kitchen and modern cookery.

Following the discussions there were several vocal duets by Arlene Queaman and Gertrude Floetz, Betty Wells and Jane Ullrich. The program was arranged by Peggy Hammerberg, Elaine Saindoin and Vera Walstrom. The new members also put on stunts.

International Night Planned by Business Women Next Monday

New London—New London Business and Professional women are planning a gala affair for international night next Monday at the American Legion clubhouse. Professor Donald DuShane of Lawrence college at Appleton will speak on international peace following a 6:30 dinner.

Members of the Catholic Women's Study club, the New London Women's Study club and the Civic Improvement league have been invited to the affair. Lively entertainment will be provided by a chorus of club members singing and dancing international folk songs and dances. The chorus will be in full costume and also will enact a flag drill.

Greetings from other Business and Professional Women's clubs in all parts of the world will be read at the meeting. The observance of international night is universal in the club organization.

New London Bees Defeat DePere

Win Preliminary Game by Score of 19 to 16 at High School Gym

New London—The New London basketball reserves jinxed the regulars as usual when they downed the West DePere Bs 19 to 16 in a preliminary game at Washington high school last night. Past records show that almost invariably when the reserves win the regulars lose and vice versa. The New London Bs have won eight games and lost two.

Trailing 3 to 4 at the end of the first quarter, the Stacymen reserves piled up a 12 to 5 lead at the half which the Phantom reserves cut to 16-13 at the end of the third period.

Ed was in top form and dropped four buckets for the team.

Neenah — Potting six baskets and two free throws, John Reed spurred the Shawano Indians on to a 25-22 win over Neenah and a stronger grip on first place in Northwestern Wisconsin conference standings during a stormy game played in the local school gymnasium last evening.

The northern squad displayed a classy passing attack throughout the contest while the Neenah offensive stubbed its toe on a man-to-man defense thrown up by Shawano. It was the first time the Rockets ran into a team which did not confine its defensive tactics to its own territory and the Neenah scoring maneuvers were disrupted time and again.

Neenah knotted the count a number of times but lacked its scoring form and was unable to get out in front of the smooth Shawano aggression. The work of Dan Schmidt, forward, was outstanding for Neenah on the basis of four baskets and a free throw while Robbins, Shawano center, kept Jack Hesselman, high scoring center, in check all evening.

Near Riot Is Feature

The tilt was tempestuous from start to finish and threatened to end in a riot when Grignon, Shawano guard, thought Haertl had done him wrong and deliberately bounced the ball off his nose. The Shawano lad was dismissed from the game but his absence was not felt as the final horn sounded a few plays later.

Harold "Coom" Rabideau, who sank three free throws out of three tries and a basket for Neenah, started things off when fouled by Barker and Hesselman added a point on Grignon's misdeed. Barker, Shawano forward, made his only point when he converted on Dan Schmidt's foul and Robbins evened the count when fouled by Dan Schmidt.

Robbins pivoted and plunked two points before Rabideau added another point to the Neenah total on Barker's personal. Robbins pushed out from the free throw area while Dan Schmidt and Gotschalk made good on free throws presented to each other as the first quarter ended, 7-4, for Shawano.

Score Tied at 9-All
Hesselman swished two points from mid-floor when the second quarter started and Dan Schmidt scored on a charity toss. Grignon retaliated with a long bucket for Shawano's only two points during the second period and Dan Schmidt beat the horn to the basket as the half ended in a tie, 9-9.

Reed eyed the basket during the third stanza and planted the ball in the hoop three times for a 6-point bloom. His first bucket was nullified when Dan Schmidt came through on an angle shot. Robbins boosted the Shawano total with a push from the free throw circle but Dan Schmidt laid in the coffin corner and tied the score, 13-13.

Grignon put his squad ahead with a lengthy fling and Schultz followed a wild one to button the score. Reed hit the hoop from the identical spot for two buckets in rapid succession and the quarter ended, 19-15, in favor of Shawano.

Slugging a repeat performance, Reed fired two more good shots at the basket and Shawano led, 23-15, in the fourth quarter. Dan Schmidt made good on Gotschalk's fourth personal and Dan Schmidt doubled in for two points. Reed added a point on Dan Schmidt's final foul and Rabideau made a short bucket to make the score 24 to 20. Rabideau dropped in a point on Leprier's foul which was canceled when Reed took advantage of Schultz's error. Haertl scored a point when Grignon lost his temper and the game ended, 25-22.

REED TAKES REBOUND AND GOES DOWN FLOOR TO SCORE
Neenah wasn't getting many rebounds last night as it dropped a 25 to 22 decision to Shawano. High school eagles in a Northwestern Wisconsin conference game, John Reed, No. 41, Shawano guard, is shown dribbling down the court, with Hesselman guarding under the close scrutiny of Referee Schneider of Oshkosh. Reed took the ball off the board and started down the court for a successful shot when the above picture was taken. (Post-Crescent Photo)

NORTHWESTERN upset Wisconsin in three games and knocked the Badgers out of first place in the Elks Big Ten league last night in games on Elks alleys. The 3-game victory gave Northwestern a slight edge in league standings. Johnston counted a 223 game and 600 series, and Grizman counted a 213 and 635 series, while Wisconsin copped individual game honors with his 235 game, W. Schultz had a 208 game and 601 series for Wisconsin.

J. Sandhoffer topped a 180 game and 513 series and W. Hughes a 551 total to lead Michigan in a double win over Iowa. The Buckeyes' high scores were rolled by DeBauer, who showed a 213 game and 556 total.

Purdue, paced by W. Konrad with a 218 game and 629 series scored two wins over Indiana. High Hoosier scores were Kolitzke's 206 game and 566 series.

Van Able's 235 game and 611 series were high for Illinois, but were not enough as Ohio topped the Illini in two games. Ohio high scores were Holt's 204 game and 538 series.

Williams spilled a 201 game and Voigt a 346 total as Chicago won two games from Minnesota. The Hoopers' scoring was topped by Koester who shot a 240 game and 574 series.

Kaukauna Forced Into Extra Period to Down Clintonville

BY DON ANDERSON

Kaukauna — Still faulty in their shooting, Kaukauna almost gave up a game to the down-trodden Clintonville five here last night, but rebounded the basket enough in the closing minutes to tie the score at 18-all and then won in the overtime 22-20.

Koehn, Kaw forward, dropped in five baskets out of 31 tries to take the game's high point honors. His last field goal tied the score with a minute to go just when it appeared that Clintonville had things well in hand and was about to mark up its first conference victory of the season.

Koehn was not alone, however, in his mood for missing shots. The Kaws besieged the basket steadily throughout the whole first quarter, getting most of the rebounds, but could make only 2 out of 16 attempts. It was like that the whole game.

In the overtime, Hanby, Kaw guard, quickly slung in a one-handed shot and Bootz, the center, followed with a hook over his head from the free throw line to set the score at 22-18. After Schauder, Clintonville forward, had tossed one in to make it 22-20, the Kaws kept the ball until the end.

Schneider slipped through three field goals and two free throws to lead his team's scoring.

First Period 4-All
Despite Kaukauna's complete domination of play, the first quarter ended 4-all. Clintonville got a few more chances with the ball the second quarter and directed by their capable captain, Martin, shot sparingly, made most of them good, and kept pace with the Kaws.

Returning to the game after being called to Coach Little's side at the finish of the first quarter, Hatchell, Kaw captain, forgot to report midway in the frame and Clintonville added a point on his error. The teams were still tied at the half, each with 11 points.

The FWD quintet put on the pressure at the start of the second half. Thies broke up a pass from Hatchell to Manby and darted in for a basket and added a free throw on Koehn's foul a moment later. Hanby pushed one through for Kaukauna, but Thies answered with another field goal and Clintonville was out in front 16-13.

Vanvenhoven made a free throw for Kaukauna and then Koehn, after watching most of his many shots avoid the basket, finally connected with two just when they were needed most and tied the score.

Black Phantoms Continue in Race With 24 to 21 Win

Regular Period Ends 20-All and Overtime Decides Outcome

BY ALVIN BRAULT

N. E. W. LONDON—West DePere added another game to its list of Northwestern Wisconsin conference victories when the New London High school five threw away the ball game, 24 to 21, at the Washington High school gym here last night. A hectic 3-minute overtime period decided the game after the Stacyans lost an 18 to 14 lead at the opening of the last quarter. The game stood 20-all at the end.

The capacity crowd became crazy with excitement while the Stacyans held their lead, 20 to 18, up to the very last seconds and it looked like a ball game for New London. With 10 seconds to count off Latus dropped a bucket for the Black Phantoms. Van Sistine and Vassen counted for the two baskets in the overtime period and Stern snared New London's lone point.

Play Cautious Ball
Both teams played rather cautious ball in the first half but the New London squad carried the game to the invaders at the outset and attempted fast breaks to get through the defense. Its tactics led it to wild passing and when it muffed on the defense the ball game went to DePere. The first two quarters were knotted at 5-all and 12-all, respectively, with the Stacyans holding whatever edge there was.

The Phantoms lacked their shooting eyes at the start and they repeatedly missed set-ups. They failed to connect at all during the first four minutes while New London piled up five points. Berken, strapping center, was lost to the invaders about the middle of the second quarter. Mann took his place.

The New London five looked good when it counted the five points to the invaders none. Three of those points were on converted fouls. Stern made the bucket on a quick pass from Demming, Latus and Van Sistine counted Phantom buckets while Utech scored a free throw.

Berken opened fire in the second quarter but committed two penalties as he dropped as many baskets. Glocke converted two shots on one of the personals and Demming the other. On two fast plays Glocke and Stern scored for New London and a bucket and charity shot by Latus evened the score at 12-all.

Nader, New London forward, rattled a long one at the opening of the second half and Demming and Glocke again crowded the hoop for a bucket apiece in the last minute of the third quarter. Latus scored a lone shot when he was left wide open. The period closed with New London leading 18 to 14 but the fourth stanza saw the score tied and West DePere win in the overtime.

Shiocton UPSET

Shiocton — Shiocton High school basketball team was ousted from the second place tie in the Western division of the Little Nine conference last night when it dropped a 27 to 23 decision to Bear Creek. Bear Creek took an 8 to 4 lead at the quarter but Shiocton was in front, 11 to 10, at half time. In the third period play was even with the quarter ending 17-17. In the fourth stanza, however, Bear Creek turned on the heat with Mullerkey and C. Flanagan scoring heavily.

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York—(AP)—Stock market buyers raised their bids for selected steels and mines today while cashing in on many other issues lately in the climbing class.

Activity was pronounced in the first hour, with an assortment of favorites getting up fractions to 2 points in new peaks for the recovery.

Selling later developed, however, and at the close the list was uneven. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Of prime interest to stockholders were advances from Washington that the president was considering outlawing excessively low wages and long hours through revision of the fair trade practice and anti-trust laws.

Bonds were mostly hesitant and grains and cotton mixed.

Conspicuous forward share leaders were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Anaconda, Howe Sound, American Metal, American Smelting, International Nickel, American Zinc, Cerro de Pasco, Southern Pacific and Barber Co.

Lifting of the domestic copper price to 15 cents a pound, a new high since 1935, was thought by some to have been discounted to a certain extent by the brisk upsurge of many red metal shares. If present demand continues, though, analysts believed larger dividends for several of the main producers were a possibility.

Hogs Down During Week, Cattle Unchanged to Higher, Lambs Advance

Chicago—(AP)—The weekend trade in livestock today was very light. A few hogs sold at unchanged to shade lower prices. Quotable top was $10.25, there being no strictly choice medium weights offered to get this price.

Hogs lost 10 to 50 cents during the week, with those weighing above 200 pounds showing the least decline.

Shipping cattle commanded unchanged to 25 cents higher prices during the week but the demand from these buyers was very narrow.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs 4,500, including 4,000 direct, steady to shade lower than Friday's average, no strictly choice medium weights offered; quotable top 10.25, few loads medium to low choice 10.00-10.10, medium grade lightweights 9.00-9.50, good 400-500 lb. sows 9.25-10, shippers took 130; estimated holdover 1,000, compared in week ago weights above 200 lb. mostly 10-15 lower, others 15-25, in instances 50 lower; sows 5-10 lower.

Authorize Extension Of Electric Lines

Madison—(AP)—The public service commission today authorized the Wisconsin Public Service corporation to extend its electric lines 3.5 miles in the town of Holland, Brown county.

It also authorized extension of a Wisconsin Power and Light company line in the town of Center, Rock county, to serve F. C. Mohns. The Rock county REA cooperative, the commission said, has filed objection to the company's proposal to serve Elmer G. Keen in the same township.

The commission notified the Lake Superior District Power company it considers a hearing advisable on the company's petition to build lines on the town of Lake, Price county, because the company has no lines in the town. No date for a hearing was fixed.

Sharp Declines In Wheat Prices In Late Trading

Moisture for Crops in Southwest Chief Bearish Influence

Chicago—(AP)—Late downturns of Chicago wheat prices today carried the market down 3 1/2 cents a bushel, maximum.

Timely moisture relief for wheat crops in the southwest was the dominating factor. Wheat selling here was not especially heavy, but recent buying support due to dust storms was lacking.

At the close, wheat was 31-3 1/2 under yesterday's finish, May 1.32-1/2, July 1.15-1/2, corn 1.11-1/2 down, May 1.06-1/2, July 1.02-1/2, oats 1.11-1/2 off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents lower.

Weekend Digest Of Business Activity In Appleton And Vicinity

Mrs. Sullivan Will Speak at Conference
(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Mrs. Katherine Sullivan, Kaukauna, member of the state board of control, and Joseph Martin, Green Bay, associate justice of the Wisconsin supreme court, are among the speakers who will participate in the discussions at the university of Wisconsin crime control conference here Feb. 24 to 26. Mrs. Sullivan will speak on relation of juvenile delinquency to criminal administration, while Judge Martin will have as his subject, "The Relation of the Legislature and the Courts to Parole". Persons of national reputation will appear at the conference, in conjunction with prominent state lawyers and jurists, state government representatives, and university experts. Prof. Alfred W. Gausewitz of the university law school is head of the committee arranging the meeting.

Lenten Meals Can Be Brighter With Puritan Products

Hoffmann Bakery Offers Wide Variety of Enjoyable Items

If you are one of the puzzled housekeepers who has trouble making up menus for the Lenten period, your problem can easily be solved. When you want to brighten up a meal and make it especially pleasing to your family and friends, be sure to serve bakery items from the Puritan. You can add much to your Lenten menus by including all kinds of baked goods sold by Hoffmann Puritan Bakery 423 W. College avenue. There are all kinds of delicious cakes, cookies, doughnuts, rolls, and breads, fresh from the oven and oh, "so good." This bakery will delight your family and guests at all times.

Hoffmann's Puritan Bakery attributes its popularity to the fact that it has always maintained the highest standard of quality, experience, and knowledge of the best way to produce only the best bakery. You will like everything you buy from Hoffmann's Puritan Bakery.

Many women lament the fact that they have so little time for special pleasures because there is always so much work to be done at home. Some women, they say, have so much time to themselves and they can't figure it out. Here is their secret: if you want to have more time for relaxation and want to get away from the long hours spent in your kitchen, the thing to do is to let the Puritan Bakery do your baking for you. Your family will enjoy the baked goods just as much for they have that "home-baked" flavor and you will have more leisure time. A call to 423 will bring you the service you want.

100 Homes Report Greater Comfort With Insulation

Sprinkman Sons Corp. Moves Office to 307 W. College Avenue

More than 100 homes in the Appleton area have been given the most comfort in their history, report their owners, because of insulation applied by Sprinkman Sons Corp. 307 W. College avenue. Warm, healthy homes have been the result, and these same homes are going to be cool when summer comes along.

This became known this week after a checkup by E. D. Ingretson, sales manager for the company here. The company recently moved its local headquarters to the present address, now locating with the Hauer Hardware company. The telephone number is 2600.

Sprinkman insulation is fluffy, wool substance, spun from mineral rock, and is full of tiny completely enclosed dead air cells, this material forming a positive barrier to the passage of heat. Blown into walls and roofs, it keeps buildings cool in summer, warm in winter, and materially reduces fuel bills. With this insulation, packed securely, between side walls and in the attic, heating plants have more opportunity to fill rooms with desired warmth and the interior is, therefore, never seriously affected by outside temperatures.

For homes under construction Sprinkman home insulation comes in "bat" of "pillow" from which is just the right size to fit snugly between studs and joists.

In either event, Sprinkman insulation is easily and conveniently applied and its cost is remarkably low. In most cases, it pays for itself with the fuel it saves.

Services Announced For Shiocton Church

Shiocton—The sermon topic of the Rev. Robert F. Black at the Congregational church Sunday morning will be "The Grace of Our Lord." A duet, a Welsh melody, "God that Madest Earth and Heaven," will be sung by David Brooker and Robert J. Black. Mrs. Monroe Manley will play the accompaniment. Services will begin at 11 o'clock.

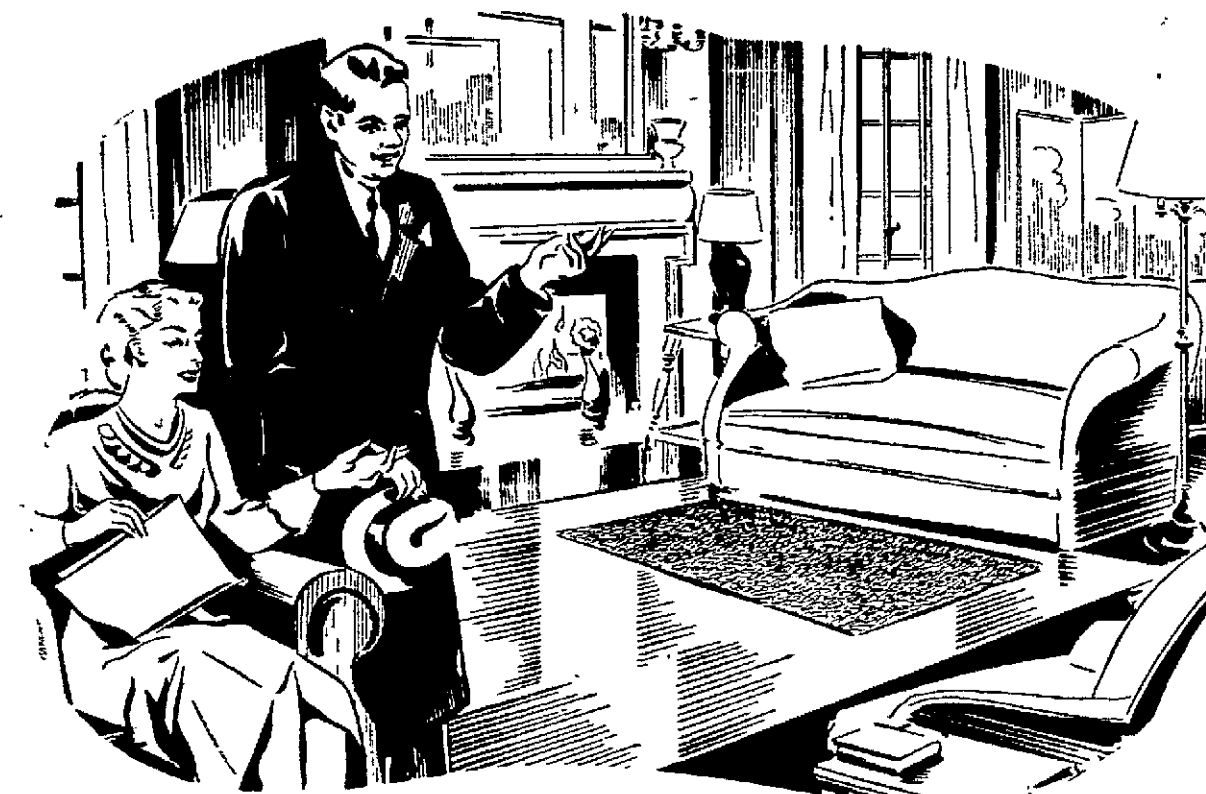

Willing Workers of the Congregational church will be entertained at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon Feb. 24 by the following committee. Mrs. Charles Masterson, Mrs. Mike Mack, Mrs. Freeman Town and Mrs. Monroe Manley. Supper will be served following the meeting.

The Ladies Bridge club was entertained at the home of Mrs. William Kroeger Thursday afternoon. A 12:30 dinner was served which was followed by cards. The hostesses included Mrs. Will Oaks, Mrs. Miles Vincennes, Mrs. James Colburn and Mrs. Mike Mack.

Honors for the day were awarded to Mrs. Barb Allender and the consolation gift to Miss Clara Fisher. Mrs. Mike Mack received the carrying prize. Grand prizes which included the four preceding meetings at which each of the above hostesses entertained individually were awarded to Mrs. Earl Kuether, high, and Mrs. Mack, low.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Jones and Miss Ann Rollo spent Tuesday at Oshkosh at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greenlaw.

Visitors at the Louie Booth home Thursday evening included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Booth, Green Bay, and Earl Feustel, Oshkosh.

FLOORS. WOODWORK MORE LOVELY WITH WATERSPAR

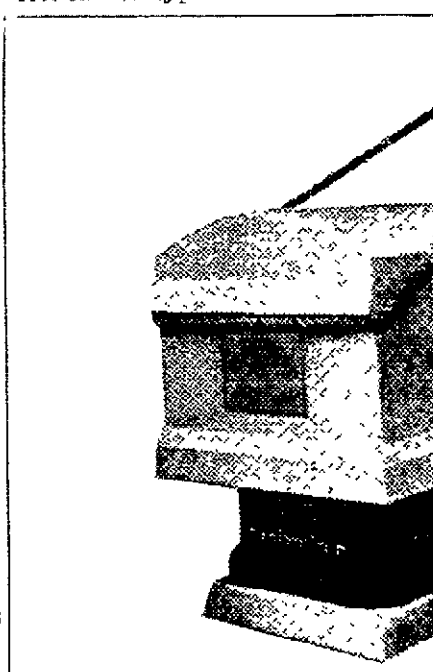

It's easy now to bring out the best in your floors, linoleum or woodwork... preserve and protect them. Just a few minutes with Waterspar Self-Polishing wax. Readily applied and in ten to fifteen minutes it has dried to a rich, gleaming lustre... long wearing, lovely and easily renewed! Available also are Waterspar Polishing Wax and Waterspar Liquid Wax, both of which afford remarkable protection. These waxes require polishing, of course. All three are available from the Appleton Paint & Glass company, 410 W. College avenue.

Get Full Value in Dollars Spent at Roemer Printers

Dependable Printing Plant Offers Skill and Good Equipment

As in most every kind of business, there are certain qualifications to look for—as in printing—which directly decide for you the selection of one printer in preference to another. Most people do business with a particular firm because, in their judgment and the opinion of their friends and business acquaintances, that firm can be depended upon to give the most for the money in service, work, and the quality of the product. These ends can necessarily be realized only by employing first-class experienced workmen, using only high quality materials, and efficient machines, and upholding a policy of fair dealing.

The record of the Chris Roemer Estate printers, 119 S. Appleton street, measures up to these qualifications more closely, perhaps, than the majority of printing businesses anywhere. It can boast of a remarkable record of nearly a half century of service in this locality in its particular line. Its craftsmen naturally are experienced in all departments of the business. Its equipment is modern and complete, featuring, in addition to its time-saving printing machinery, a wide selection of type faces which add

Vanden Berg Burial Vaults, made in Kaukauna, are praised by funeral directors and cemetery officials for their permanency and thorough protection.

Vanden Berg Vaults Called Better; Provide Real, Lasting Protection

The construction of burial vaults may not be the most pleasant topic for thought but it certainly is of general interest. At some time, every family is forced to give it serious consideration. The Vanden Berg Air Sealed Reinforced Concrete Burial Vault firm, whose offices and factory are located on Canal street, Kaukauna, believes that the superior quality and the reasonableness in price in addition to the permanency and other features which characterizes its vaults gives its product a rating which is practically impossible to equal.

By way of description, this particular vault consists of a beveled base upon which the casket rests and the vault proper which encloses the base rests upon the earth. It is unusually symmetrical in design, excellently finished, and constructed of concrete, a particularly correct principle. It has the unreserved endorsement of many leading undertakers, cemetery superintendents, and the general public wherever it has been introduced because of its two most important features, namely, permanency and the air-sealed principle.

Material and construction of the Vanden Berg Air Sealed Reinforced Concrete Burial Vault insures it against earth weight and the destructive elements of nature, particularly mineral action and is absolutely burglar proof. It is impervious to water and becomes stronger and harder with age. Being air-sealed, definite assurance of perfect dryness is made possible. The im-

Higher Hunting Fee Is Favored in Michigan

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—The house passed and sent to the senate Friday a bill requiring a $15 license fee from non-residents hunting in Michigan south of Town Line 16.

The fee previously was $5 for non-residents hunting any place in the state. It was maintained at the level in the northern portion of the state to encourage the tourist business.

A resolution asking a constitutional amendment to reduce the membership of the house from 100 to 64 was introduced today by Representative Joseph F. Nagel, Democrat, Detroit. The resolution was sent to the committee on constitutional revision.

Condemnation of Land Considered At Clintonville

Council Hears Arguments On Proposed Right-of-Way to Sewage Plant

Clintonville—Matters pertaining to condemnation proceedings of property owned by the Weller and Prenzlau estates were discussed at an adjourned meeting of the city council Thursday evening. Arguments on behalf of the city were given by Clifford Mullerke, city attorney, while S. W. Brunner is representing the Weller and Prenzlau estates, which have been asking prices for their land which are considered excessive by city officials. Small parcels of land from these properties are needed for a right-of-way from Emily street to the new sewage disposal plant, a PWA project on which work has recently been started. Further action on the condemnation proceedings will be taken at another adjourned meeting of the council next week.

The aldermen also adopted a resolution whereby the city will ask for a WPA project on 12,500 feet of curb and gutter on various streets of the city during the coming season. The application for approval of the project has been forwarded to federal authorities by City Clerk S. J. Tilleson. Through the WPA all labor costs are paid by the government while the city and the property owners will pay for the material. The cost to the property owners, under this plan amounts to approximately 30 cents per foot, while it would otherwise amount to about $1 per foot.

The council approved the purchase of five tons of coal to be used at the armory, where the WPA sewing project is housed. Nine local women are employed on the project, which is under the supervision of Mrs. J. J. Kelly.

Herbert Schmiedeke has opened a men's clothing store in the building recently vacated by the Deser Electric Shop on S. Main street. Mr. Schmiedeke, formerly a resident of Clintonville, spent the last seven years in the west and returned to this city last fall.

Victor Kant, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Kant, underwent an operation on his hand this week at the Clintonville Community hospital. His right hand was fractured during football practice last fall at the Idaho state university, where Kant was a student during the first semester of the 1936-37 term.

Mrs. Leonard Fischer entertained 24 friends at her home on Anne street Thursday afternoon. The affair being in the form of a benefit party for the Thimble club of Christ Lutheran church. "Cootie" provided amusement, with a luncheon following the games.

Miss Anita Luebke is spending several weeks in Chicago visiting at the home of her brother, Dr. Edward Luebke and Mrs. Luebke.

Mrs. Henry Borchardt has returned to her home in this city after a month's visit in Madison with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Coster.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kuckuk and family have moved from the Simon residence on Anne street to the Orrie Williams house on W. Thirtieth street. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Otto have moved from the Williams house to a flat on E. Fifteenth street, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Walton Johnson.

Miss Bernice Ludolph this week resumed her position as a clerk at the J. C. Penney Co. store, after an absence during which she was recovering from a major operation which she underwent in December.

Mrs. Albert Meilke, Mrs. Kenneth Spearbraker, Mrs. William Below, Mrs. George Below, Mrs. Raymond Below and Mrs. A. E. Klingert spent Wednesday with friends at Menasha.
